Harsh Rights Bill Faces Filibuster If Brought To Floor, South Warns

RALPH McGILL

In What Fire Was Thy Brain?

Richard V. Smith Jr., 18, has been sentenced to serve six to ten years in prison for having destroyed valuable paintings in the Columbus, Ga., art museum because, he said, he believed them to be the work of Jewish artists. The young man definitely informed court officials that he considered the late Adolf Hitler to be "the reincarnation of whatever divine source that may exist," a statement which must have startled even the shade of that fateful Fuehrer, at whatever level of hell it now dwells.

The young man also admitted painting swastikas on synagogues as a nocturnal recreation.

The solicitor general, however, reveals the young man as having been motivated by the impulses of a common thief, or burglar, rather than by those lofty, or divine. He had, he said, broken into the museum to rob it, but finding no cash, set fire to the paintings.

His attorney describes him as a frustrated, confused lad. It is a bit difficult to understand frustration, but confused he is, though it is a kind word.

The Guilty

His attorney is, without question, more nearly accurate when he says his client has been "brainwashed by older persons." He did not name them. No one would question this belief. The young man obviously had fallen in with those who operate from the cesspools of hate from which are spewed out the various, though similar, publications filled with hatred and lies. They incite older persons to violence. What they might do to young unstable minds is at once obvious. You get a quick look into at least a partial explanation of some of the teen-age crime and violence in reading the story of 18-year-old Richard Smith. His story makes one think of Blake's "Tiger."

"Tiger, Tiger, burning bright
In the forests of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry . . .?

"What the hammer? What the chain?
In what furnace was thy brain?
What the anvil? What dread grasp
Dare its deadly terrors clasp?"

There is in Columbus, as in Atlanta, one of those publishing cesspools manufacturing dangerous narcotics of hate for sick minds.

The arresting officer said that young Smith had admitted activity with hate organizations in both these cities. One of the jobs which older persons gave him was to sneak their printed exhalations of hate between pages of books in the public libraries.

He told them, too, that hate literature published in Columbus was distributed to other parts of the country, much of it going to troubled Little Rock.

Two and Two

One may simply put two and two together and know immediately why there are so many young hoodlums active in the mobs and disorders at Little Rock. They have been reading the literature which young Smith, and others, mailed out.

I remember writing, some years ago, about a man who had been arrested, and convicted of being a party to a Ku Klux Klan killing. I suggested his early record indicated he was a good man and father. His tearful wife telephoned.

"Oh," she said, sobbing, "he was. He was a good man until those wicked men played on his vanity and made him think it would be a great thing to help beat this man. We couldn't talk to him after they got to him. It was awful. Awful."

You feel a sadness about the young Smiths of this world and their innocent families, who suffer agony. But for the evil men who cynically produce the hate publications, which they themselves don't believe, to make a profit out of the psychotic and sick of mind, there is only contempt.

As young Smith's attorney said—those really guilty of burning the paintings are those grown-ups who brainwashed him and took his money—and sent him to jail for six to ten years.

Manhattan Is Blacked Out As Heat Burns Out Power

By HOMER BIGART
(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Large areas of Manhattan were blacked out Monday by a massive power failure induced by the heat wave.

A half million persons were suddenly deprived of electricity when circuits, apparently overloaded by peak use of air conditioners and fans, burned out in mid-afternoon.

The areas affected were the West Side from 59th to 110th streets, and the East Side from 74th to 110th streets.

Within this area all traffic lights went out.

Subway trains were halted for 45 minutes on the independent Eighth Avenue line between 59th and 125th streets when the power failure knocked out signal lights and water pumps. Thereafter train service was resumed, but sweltering passengers were moved at snail pace because of the continued disruption of the signalling system.

Several major hospitals were deprived of lights, elevator service, food refrigeration and air conditioning. Police and fire department emergency squads rushed to Mount Sinai Hospital where nine patients were in iron lungs. Auxiliary power kept the iron lungs operating until emergency generator trucks arrived.

The breaks occurred in the "Central Park network" of cables supplied by the Hell Gate power station, one of the largest in the world. Six cables feeding the upper West Side burned out at 2:49 p.m. Consolidated Edison shut off 14 remaining cables of the network at 3 p.m., fearing they could not carry the load.

The shut-off affected about 500 blocks of homes, apartments, hospitals, museums and business establishments. Police headquarters declared an emergency in the blackout zone. All 2,000 policemen assigned to the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. shifts in Manhattan were ordered held overtime until power was restored.

Service was partly restored shortly before 11 p.m. but an estimated 425 city blocks were still left without current.

LIGHTS OF JERSEY SHINE (BACKGROUND), BUT PARTS OF MANHATTAN ARE DARK IN POWER FAILURE

May Wreck Even a Mild Measure

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Southern senators made it clear Monday they will filibuster against a harsh civil rights bill introduced by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) if it ever gets to the Senate floor.

Georgia's Sen. Russell predicted that any serious effort to pass the Hennings bill would result in "a real donnybrook."

In this eventuality, Russell said, Congress might as well forget plans to adjourn before the Sept. 15 visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

BY-PASSES COMMITTEE

By-passing the Senate judiciary committee, Hennings introduced his tough, eight-point bill as an amendment to pending legislation already on the Senate calendar.

The Missouri Senator thus made good his threat of last week to take such action because of Southern delay over civil rights in the judiciary committee.

WOULD PROVIDE WRITS

The Hennings bill, giving the attorney general power to force racial integration by injunction, and endorsing the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation ruling, has practically no chance of passage in the Senate. However, unless checkmated by Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson, it could provoke a Southern filibuster and thereby prevent enactment of even a mild civil rights bill at this session of Congress.

Russell and Sen. Talmadge of Georgia, Sens. Ervin (D-N.C.), Thurmond (D-S.C.), Johnston (D-S.C.) and other Southerners promptly denounced the Hennings bill as vicious and left no doubt they would talk against it at length.

RUSSELL FOR ATTACK

Russell said he would welcome a chance for a "very lengthy discussion" against provisions of the Hennings bill, and Talmadge said he would resist it "with all the resources at my command."

Sen. Ervin, who apparently has been willing to go along with a mild civil rights bill, was even more bluntly outspoken in what tactics he would use against the Hennings proposal.

"His bill is the most drastic,

Jury Asked to Probe Baby 'Gray Market'

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A grand jury investigation into "gray market" baby dealings here was suggested Monday on the heels of the release from jail of a mother who gave away her eight children.

The suggestion came from Fulton County Welfare Administrator Wellborn R. Ellis after Criminal Court authorities ordered the dismissal of neglect charges against Mrs. Carl Daniel Quisenberry, 28.

"I thought perhaps the grand jury would be interested in going into the Quisenberry situations and/or other adoption petitions to see to what extent any third parties may be acting as intermediaries in connection with the placement of children by their mothers," Ellis said.

Sol. Gen. Paul Webb said Monday night he had no plans to present the matter to the present term of the Fulton grand jury.

"I don't know anything about it," he said. "I don't see anything for the grand jury to do about it. They might decide to go into it, though. I don't know."

Ellis also said that, in his opinion, any adoption documents which Mrs. Quisenberry may have signed in giving away her children are invalid.

"She could not have legally

17 Children Hurt as Bus, Truck Crash

Constitution State News Service

MADISON — Seventeen Negro school children were injured slightly Monday when a school bus collided head on with a milk truck on a Morgan County road, the State Patrol reported.

State Trooper D. C. Ghormley said most of the youngsters suffered cuts and bruises.

35-40 ON BUS

This was the first school bus wreck reported this school year. During the last school year, the Department of Education reported 112 school bus wrecks and 11 fatalities.

Ghormley estimated 35 to 40 students were on the bus when the wreck occured on a curve 13 miles south of Madison. Both drivers told patrolmen they applied brakes and the vehicles skidded into each other.

The bus was driven by Robert Butler, 44, of Buckhead and the milk truck was driven by Billy Preston Cantrell, 29, of Madison.

SPEED ESTIMATED

The State Patrol estimated the speeds of both vehicles before the collision at about 40 miles per hour. Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $300, the patrol said.

Joe DeFoor, transportation officer of the state Department of Education, said Monday night that he expected a full report on the accident by Tuesday afternoon.

He said his department's area representative, Fred Blackmon of Thomson, would conduct an on-the-spot investigation Tuesday and report to him as soon as he finished.

Little Rock Almost Quiet; Pine Bluff Near Turmoil

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Some hooting and jeering by white students was directed at Jefferson Thomas, 16, lone Negro at Central High School, as he emerged from classes Monday.

But a segregationist leader's charge of unrest and disorder at Central was denied by officials and Thomas himself.

Thomas said the jeering came from a small group of students. He said a majority of the students continued to ignore him and, inside school, maintain a silence.

A segregationist leader charged Monday night that Thomas had been involved in fights and that unrest permeated Central.

The Rev. Wesley Pruden, past president of the Capital Citizens Council, asked Mayor Werner Knoop and the city directors in a telegram that a committee of white parents be allowed to inspect Central.

Pruden said he had heard Thomas was knocked down by

Clinkscales Puts Off Court at Winder

Constitution State News Service

WINDER—Piedmont Judicial Circuit Judge Maylon B. Clinkscales recessed the Barrow County Superior Court here Monday "until further notice."

He said his action was taken because of indictments pending against him in Jackson County.

The August term of the Barrow court began Monday. Judge Clinkscales opened the court, empaneled a grand jury, then dismissed the jurors.

ORDER QUOTED

Clinkscales said in his order dismissing the jurors that he was not adjourning but "recessing . . . until further notice" the jury. He said he would not hold court in Barrow County until the indictments are cleared. Other counties in his circuit are Jackson, Banks and Gwinnett.

The two indictments pending against him in Jackson County charge him with barratry and conspiring to cheat or defraud the county.

'NO WARRANT SERVED'

Those indictments were returned last week. Clinkscales has declined comment on them "because it is improper for a judge to make any public statement concerning any matter pending before his court."

Piedmont Circuit Sol. Gen. Alfred A. Quillian said Monday night no decision has yet been made on the procedure to be followed in serving the warrant on Clinkscales.

Quillian said he was busy "looking up the law" in the unique case. He said another judge would be the one to serve the warrant. The steps leading to that eventuality have not yet been decided on.

Senators Vow No Deadlock On Labor Bill

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The red hot labor control issue was tossed to a Senate - House conference Monday after Senate Democratic leaders pledged they wouldn't allow a deadlock to strangle anti-corruption legislation.

Senate action by voice vote cleared the way for a 14-man committee to seek a compromise between a Democratic-backed bill passed by the Senate last April and a stricter—Landrum-Griffin measure endorsed by President Eisenhower and passed by the House last week.

Before the vote, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) expressed concern that the conferees would be unable to reach agreement and that in such an event the House would take the milder Senate bill, or there would be no antiracketeering legislation at all. He said this is "the strategy of the labor bosses."

Instead of sending the matter to conference, Mundt wanted the

Trucker in Crash Is Bound Over

Judge Frank White of the Atlanta Municipal Traffic Court ordered Elbert Byous bound over Monday to Fulton Superior Court on four charges of manslaughter in connection with the deaths of four women last Friday in a South Expressway wreck. Bond was set at $10,000.

Byous, 41, was driver of the tractor-trailer which careened across the expressway divider and slammed into the automobile carrying the four women. Byous was in jail Monday night.

Primer for the Stock Market

Some Good Rules to Follow When You Invest in Stocks

By HARRY KAHN JR.

Third of 12 chapters on stock investments by a prominent Wall Street and Washington broker, who is also a university instructor in market analysis.

A lot of people get too complicated in their approach to the market. On the other hand, it is also true that often fools rush in where angels fear to trade.

Thoreau's advice, "Simplify, simplify, simplify," is as good in stock market trading as it is in almost everything else, but it is by no means the whole story. Having got some of the basic "don't's" out of the way in yesterday's installment, I'm now going to begin to tell you how to buy stocks.

First, a generalization: Choose intelligently, buy slowly and carefully, hang on unemotionally, and sell only when there is good reason to sell.

Buy for the long pull, not for a quick turnover for profit. That doesn't mean that you buy all stocks with the idea of holding on to them for life and passing them on to your children. It does mean that you don't sell a week or two weeks later just because the stock goes up a few points.

You hold on for six months or a year or two or five or whatever time passes before there is a substantial reason to get rid of the stock. By a substantial reason I mean a change in the outlook for the company, industry or economy large enough to persuade you the price is about as high as it's going to go any time soon.

Now, what should prompt you to buy a stock? One reasonable

5 of 7 Councilmen Bolt at Forest Park

By JACK KAPLAN

Five of Forest Park's seven councilmen stalked out of a council meeting Monday night, cutting short a session that boiled with name-calling, jeers and cheers.

The walkout came after Mayor L. D. Strietelmeir vetoed a proposal to recess the meeting.

A hearing for City Manager Norman Edward Tucker, who was suspended by the mayor, never came before the meeting.

The meeting was the latest episode in a six-month running battle between the mayor and council.

The meeting room, packed with cheering-and-jeering Forest Park citizens, reverbrated with political accusations and personal attacks.

Mayor Strietelmeier and the council bickered over every point.

After the meeting a petition was circulated which demanded "immediate resignation or impeachment" of Councilmen Paul Addis and Ben Lopez and City Manager Tucker.

Monday night's fireworks started when Councilman Roy Dunn sought to suspend City Attorney Rex Reeves. The mayor had vetoed such a suspension.

Haiti Calls on OAS To Halt 'Invasion'

Blames Cubans in Test Of New Peace Commission

By HENRY RAYMONT

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Haiti appealed to the Organization of American States Monday to put a stop to the "invasion," blamed on Cubans, which threatens the Negro nation's already shaky government.

Foreign Minister Louis Mars' petition, which will be presented formally to the OAS Council in Washington later, may provide the first test of the new powers the foreign ministers' conference here granted to the Inter - American Peace Commission Monday.

The resolution empowering the peace commission to deal with the sort of "indirect aggression" which has kept the Caribbean area in turmoil was a key item in the list of resolutions approved by the conference as it drove toward Tuesday's scheduled adjournment.

DICTATORS DENOUNCED

The resolutions approved Monday, notably the "Santiago declaration" which denounces dictatorship and extends the powers of the peace commission, will be signed at a formal closing session Tuesday.

As the ministers pressed toward scheduled adjournment Tuesday of their conference on Caribbean tensions, Cuban Army Commander Maj. Raul Castro was en route to "protect" and "rescue" uban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, who has charged that there have been plots against his life. Castro was due Tuesday.

He was said to be bringing "proof" of an abortive attempt against the government of his brother, Fidel Castro, by Dominican Dictator Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Mollina.

CUBANS INTERNED

A Cuban Air Force DC4 transport carying Transport Minister Julio Camacho, 21 newsmen and a group of bearded Castro soldiers, landed without authorization at Santiago's Los Carillos airport. The plane and its 40 passengers and crew were interned by Chilean authorities.

The Santiago declaration, introduced by Brazil, empowers an inter-American peace commission to act on complaints of indirect aggression such as the Cuban-Dominican quarrel which triggered the current Caribbean crisis.

The commission is to report its findings to the 11th Inter-American Conference, scheduled for next February in Ecuador.

Laos Army Reeling, Reds Say

TOKYO (UPI)—The North Vietnamese Communists claimed Monday that Red - led rebels in northern Laos wiped out 13 governmnt posts, forced loyal troops to withdraw from nine others and inflicted "hundreds" of casualties on the defending forces.

A North Viet Nam News Agency report, monitored in Tokyo, claimed that "vast areas" of North Laos, including the whole of the Muong Son District, were captured from Laotian royal troops.

U.S. Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Arleigh A. Burke told newsmen in Washington that the Laotian crisis was "very serious." Asked if the U.S. Navy might be called into action in the southeast Asian area, Burke said: "It might. It's possible."

Burke said the Navy was prepared to do "whatever is necessary" if it were called into such action.

The Communist report said the fighting had spread to Luang Prabang in North Central Laos and much farther inland from the Laos-Viet Nam border than before.

Girl, 15, Bitten By Fish at Savannah Beach

Elizabeth Fields was vacationing with relatives here and was swimming when she was bitten by an unidentified fish on her ankle. She was rushed to a hospital where 28 stitches were taken to close the wound.

The incident occurred last Monday, but it was not revealed by beach officials until Monday so that it would not alarm tourists at the seaside resort.

Beach officials speculated the fish was either a barracuda or a shark.

Soviet Subs Firing Ballistic Missiles?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The probability that the Soviet Union already has ballistic missile firing submarines while the United States is still working at building the first ones was presented Monday in comments by Adm. Arleigh A. Burke.

However, if Soviet subs are able to lob nuclear-tipped missiles from hiding positions beneath the sea, those submarines presumably are still conventional-powered boats rather than the atomic-powered craft which this country has been putting into its fleet for about three years.

This development in the U.S.-Soviet armament race came to light during a news conference held by Burke as he began his fifth year as chief of naval operations.

Burke was asked if he thought the Soviet Union now has submarines able to launch ballistic as well as the older air-breathing missiles.

He replied, "I think they probably have both."

A ballistic missile, unlike conventional guided missiles such as the U.S. Navy Regulus and the U.S. Air Force Mace, is impossible to intercept with any known counter weapon.

The Navy is still working at developing and testing its 1,200-mile range, solid-fuel Polaris ballistic missile. The first of the submarines for launching Polaris missiles, the George Washington, is not expected to be ready for the fleet until next year.

Burke was asked about a Soviet submarine sighted and photographed last May by U.S. Navy planes and ships off Iceland. He said it was possible that it could have been a missile-firing submarine, but it was impossible to say whether its missiles would be the ballistic or air-breathing type.

The admiral, in answer to a question, said he thought the Russians are now constructing atomic-propelled submarines.

S. African Women Protest Travel Curb

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Thousands of African women rallied Monday at Saint Faith's Mission to protest government regulations controlling the movement of nonwhites.

Police reinforcements rushed to the mission as a precaution against violence in this latest of a series of feminine challenges to white authority in Natal province.

A detachment of 18 police sped from Pietermaritzburg, the provincial capital, in two armored troop carriers. The mission is about 35 miles fom the inland town of Harding.

The women were demanding relaxation of the travel restrictions on the ground their husbands are unable to go to Durban to work and, as a result, are unemployed. They say they will withhold taxes until the controls are eased.

Elsewhere, other incidents appeared to reflect African antagonism toward the efforts of white authorities to modernize African farming methods.

In Capetown, the minister of African administration has ordered an investigation. Dr. W. W. Eilselen, secretary of native affairs, will conduct the inquiry.

African women at Umtwalumi, south of Durban, stopped seven buses and demanded that the drivers take them to Durban and Pietermaritzburg to free a number of women jailed last week for the destruction of cattle-dipping tanks.

Some of the Umtwalumi group were reported to have seized sugar cane knives from laborers in nearby fields and threatened police.

The police arrested 114.

Near Ifafa, on the southern coast, telephone lines were out. African women were reported to have cut them.

Arraignment Postponed in Wife-Killing

POMONA, Calif. (UPI) —Dr. Bernard Finch's arraignment on charges he killed his wife so he could marry a pretty divorcee was postponed Monday in Superior Court.

Superior Judge James G. White granted the postponement — until Aug. 31—at the request of Finch's attorneys who said they needed more time to study the transcript of the surgeon's preliminary hearing.

Red-haired Carole Tregoff, 22, Finch's admitted mistress who accompanied him to the home of his estranged wife, Barbara, 33, will learn Tuesday if she is to be tried as Finch's accomplice in the slaying.

Prosecutor Fred Whichello, who has asked that Miss Tregoff stand trial with Finch, agreed to the postponement Monday.

Whichello said, however, even if Miss Tregoff is freed in Municipal Court Tuesday, her freedom will be brief.

Should she be released, he said, he would ask authorities "to call the grand jury and seek a true bill against her."

Universe To Survive The Rockets

QUESTION: What is your opinion of these rocket experiments? Will these space experiments interfere with the planets in any way, such as the power of the sun, or the disarrangement of the earth or moon? If so, can the Lord stop these adventures into space?
—Bondi, N.S.W.

ANSWER: Though I am a minister and not a scientist, I have no qualms about the rocket experiments upsetting the order of the universe. It would be just as logical to get upset at children casting stones into the ocean, fearing their childish actions might upset the rhythm of the tides. God's universe is so vast that man's probing into space is less expansive than a pin-prick in the outer skin of an onion. Our solar system is just one of many in God's colossal creation. No, I don't think you need to fear that the rocket experiments are endangering the universe.

Perhaps all this is to beckon our attention to the greatness and majesty of God. The Bible says: "When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained: What is man that Thou art mindful of him? O Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth."

Tax Equalization Is Good Business

Congratulations are in order for the people of Grady County and their county commission. They have faced the problem of tax equalization realistically and have come up with a solution which is being hailed as one of the most progressive steps in the county's history.

Early this year the commission at Cairo employed a firm of experts to do a complete reappraisal of all taxable property in the county in order to establish its true value. The job now is almost completed.

As a result, the gross tax digest will be increased from about 10 million dollars to 30 million dollars. And based on 40 per cent of the "true value" of property, the commission has come up with a tax rate which is about a third of that of last year. It will yield, however, approximately the same revenue.

Apparently the community as a whole is satisfied. For the first time there will be uniformity in appraisals. Most taxpayers will pay about the same but those who have gotten away with ridiculously low appraisals will pay more.

Uniform values will insure equality, a fair shake for all taxpayers and easier financing of county services. The new tax base also will increase the county's bonding capacity.

It will be interesting to watch Grady County's experience under the new program. If it follows the pattern in other counties which have adopted equalization, there will be greater progress in government and all other fields.

Tax equalization on a statewide basis is long overdue. The experience of counties which have gone ahead with it provide ample proof.

Keep Fingers Crossed On Inflation Optimism

The administration believes the battle against inflation is being won. Last January the President appointed the "Cabinet Committee on Price Stability for Economic Growth." Its general objective was to learn what do we really want from our economy?

That committee, of which Vice President Nixon is chairman, has released its report. It is a reasonably optimistic conclusion that the line will be held on the general price level.

Even more important is the heavy stress laid on the need for sustained economic growth. Maximum employment opportunities and reasonable stability of the price level are other major goals.

It is helpful to have this optimism from some of the nation's top economists. We share it with fingers crossed. The steel strike will have an effect which may upset or sustain the hopeful anticipations of the committee.

If the strike lasts too long it will change the basic buying habits of the users of steel who already are turning to foreign supplies. If the settlement in any way upsets the price index, which is remaining reasonably stable, we will be off on a flight into unreasonable inflation.

So we will keep our fingers crossed.

Cuban Revolution Is 'Stranger Than Fiction'

Stranger than fiction is a label early put on the revolution led in Cuba by Fidel Castro. It continues to be even more unlikely and impossible than fiction.

No respectable editor of fiction would, for example, purchase a story such as the one just concluded. In it an American soldier of fortune meets with agents of the Dominican Republic and agrees to lead a plot to overthrow Castro. He goes to Miami and receives money and promise of arms. A boat load of Dominican arms is captured.

The American then leads a force of pretended rebels into the hills and using a radio and code supplied him by the Dominican plotters announces he has seized the Cuban city of Trinidad. He asks for technical assistance, arms and money. It comes in a big aircraft which is captured along with its occupants and supplies. Who would believe such a fiction story?

This intrigue against Castro is not merely crushed, it is made to look ridiculous. Castro has documentary evidence of Dominican and Batista plotting against him. His hold on the people is increased.

But ahead of him is the cold fact of his economic position. His revolution cannot succeed without sales of sugar and trade. He must somehow find a way to give attention to business as well as to plots by his enemies.

The United States will do well to give what assistance it can. The administration has made no charges of communism against Castro. That there are Communists in the army and among his followers is admitted. They, seeing the way the revolution was going, joined up in the last months before success was attained. They are a serious problem.

But the people of the United States will be unwise to look upon the agrarian reform measure as Communistic. We were sure Nasser was a Communist. He now is more on our side than before and has been denounced by Russia. We were sure the revolution in Iraq was Communist. There now is a revulsion against communism there. The issue is not settled in either of those countries as it is not in Cuba. But the lesson is plain. Drastic land reform is necessary in all countries with feudal backgrounds.

Castro does not now look with favor on the Organization of American States, now in conference in Santiago, Chile. But he must in time become a member of the family of Latin American countries. The organization now offers the services of the Inter-American Peace Commission to any country desiring it.

We trust that as soon as Castro's Latin temper cools he will approve and make use of this commission. All of us have a stake in Latin American stability.

Is Bourgeois Capitalism Invading the Soviets?

It is an accepted fact—and one which makes many Europeans uncomfortable—that Western practices slowly but surely are being accepted, in part at least, by all the peoples of the world.

But we did not expect to see the Russians adopt the horrid, unsocialistic, imperialist, capitalist system of instalment buying.

This practice is bourgeois without question. It is the very essence of bourgeois living which the Marxists find so obnoxious.

But next month, the Soviets have announced, the Russian wage earner will be able to go into debt. He will be required, however, to make down payments of at least 20 to 25 per cent. (The latter will seem like good sound, capitalistic business to the Federal Reserve Bank.) He will pay a service charge of 1 to 2 per cent. For the time being his instalment buying must be in the field of costly goods—television sets, furniture, etc.

Heretofore all buying in Russia has been for cash. The only exception was in the utility field, where letters to banks allowed transfers from savings accounts each month to pay these bills. Soviet stores make no deliveries and have never had charge accounts.

We can be sure of some fine foul-ups. Bookkeeping methods in Russia are bureaucratic and complex. Clerks still use the ancient acabus to figure cost and change.

But like the march of blue jeans, ice cream and other Western foibles, the capitalist device of instalment buying—the most painless method ever devised for separating a man from his money—is on the march.

Karl Marx must be whirling in his grave. He didn't even want to use such a bourgeois thing as money.

Just Yesterday Halsey Broke Japanese Navy

The news said Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey was dead at 76.

The first reaction was that that age was impossible. Why it was just the other day that the nation was thrilling to pictures of "Bull" Halsey, leaning from the bridge of his great battleship and to the news of his tremendous victories in the Marshalls, the Gilberts off Guadalcanal and finally, of course, the magnificent triumph in Leyte Gulf where he and his command broke the back of the Japanese Navy.

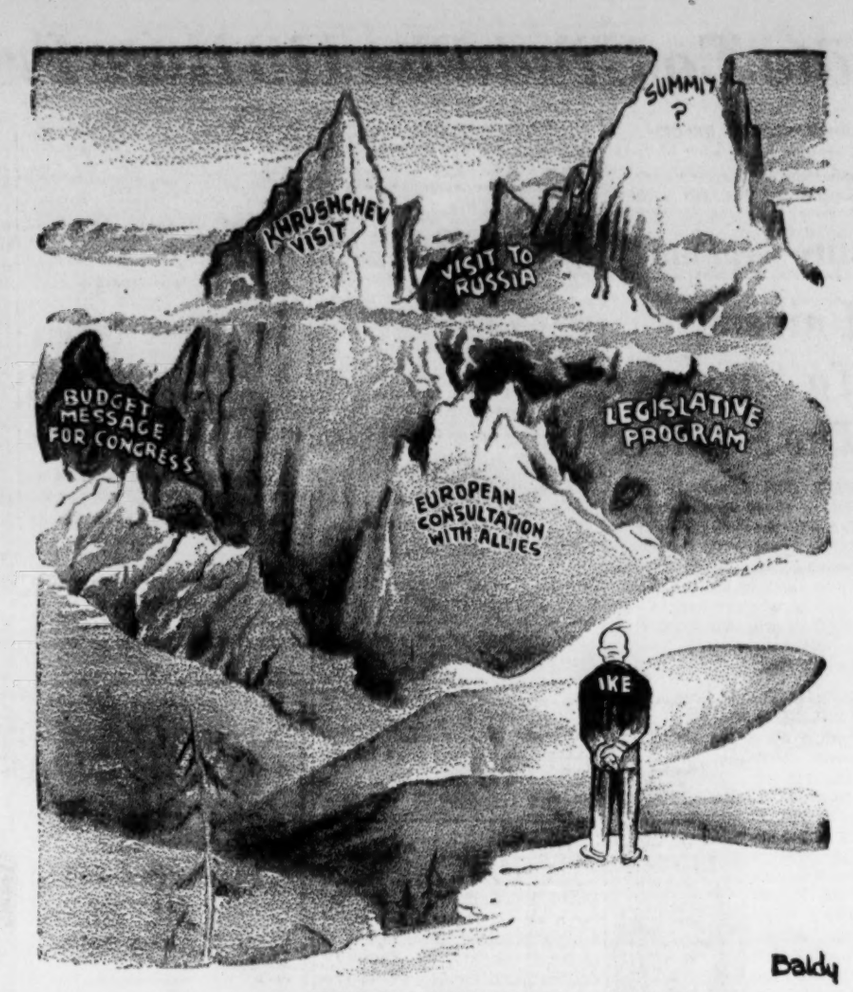

None questioned which ship should receive the Japanese surrender. It was Halsey's Missouri.

On the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, he was heaved to off Pearl Harbor, having been en route there after a mission to Wake Island. From that time on he was never at rest. He was the Nathan Bedford Forrest of the seas—getting there "fustest with the mostest." And if he didn't have the most, he got there first anyhow.

His forces in the air and on the sea destroyed some 4,880 planes and sank so many ships that exact count was lost. At Leyte Gulf, for example, the command sank and damaged 51 Japanese vessels and a great number of aircraft.

Now the word comes that he died in his sleep and that he was 76. It can't be. But it is.

And so we join the thousands of men who served under him, and the shades of those who died in action, in one vast sincere salute to the Admiral of the Fleet . . . "Bull" Halsey.

Readers Sound Off on Taxpayer Proposal To Sterilize Illegitimate Babies' Mothers

Decatur — Never in my life have I been so dismayed by an article as I was at Celestine Sibley's blast at the "holier than thou" taxpayers who object to paying for all the illegitimate babies the unmarried mothers want to have.

In the United States last year over 300,000 babies were born to unmarried mothers. For these the taxpayers shelled out $25 a month for each child, making a total for the year's crop of $7,500,000.

As this racket has been going on for a number of years and some of the girls have as many as six or more, the cost of the total number must run into the hundreds of millions.

To Miss Sibley this may be just a few lousy dollars, but to the taxpayer staggering under an ever-increasing, heart-breaking, back-breaking burden of taxes, it seems like quite a large sum of money.

One colored lady has to date had 10 children for which she collects $350 a month. Over the period of her career, she has received over $23,000 in addition to hospital care and relief funds for herself.

Whatever abuse may be heaped on me for being uncooperative and unsympathetic in the sacred name of motherhood, I very much object to paying these taxes.

HELEN TIGUE.

Editor's Note: Mrs. Caroline Clarke, director of the DeKalb County Welfare Department, says $134 a month is the absolute maximum ADC grant any family receives. That is fixed by regulation. She invites the letter writer to give her the name of the recipient she mentions and promises the department will investigate fully.

* * *

Atlanta — While I still am all fired up after reading Celestine Sibley's column in The Constitution, I want to write "Hurrah, hurrah for her!" I am so darn tired of men pontificating about illegitimate children and passing resolutions about sterilizing women that I could take out after them.

It isn't necessary for me to write more. We are in complete agreement and I bet 90 per cent of the women in the world feel the same way whether they are moral, immoral or amoral. The incidence of test tube pregnancies is rare.

LUESTA H. KNOX.

* * *

Lanett, Ala. — I read Celestine Sibley's column in The Constitution each day. Her "Let Moralists Pick on Men" was a masterpiece. The question women ask themselves and each other is, "Why should only men be allowed to make and pass laws concerning the woman and not the man."

I feel as she does about this matter and we are not in the minority group.

MISS GLADYS PHILLIPS.

* * *

Atlanta — Thanks for Celestine Sibley's article, "Let Moralists Pick on Men." As she indicated, the proponents of a sterilization bill to cut down on illegitimacy are shortsighted and unrealistic. What they propose is as bad or worse than illegitimacy itself.

'Books on Religion Should Be Clear'

Decatur—Not long ago I had the pleasure of reading a best-selling book about religion by a Southern writer.

I will have to confess, though, that I had a hard time in reading the book and in following the train of thought.

A book on religion should be easy for the average reader to comprehend unless it is intended for textbook purposes. In this respect one of the best authors of a religious book in our times is Rev. J. A. Huffman of Winnona Lake, Ind. I am now reading one of his latest books. Dr. Huffman's books are written very scholarly, yet they are so readable anyone can understand them.

He is characterized as "a Teacher of Teachers and Preacher of Preachers." I want our Southern readers to get acquainted with this noble character who is a resourceful writer, a fine scholar and a Christian gentleman.

Are Opinion Polls Playing An Overemphasized Role?

Gov. Rockefeller and the Eisenhower administration are both furnishing fresh examples of the extent to which the political opinion poll has become a master as well as a servant in American public life. The New York governor, described as a great believer in political polls, is reported waiting to see whether they show him leading Vice President Nixon before he decides about becoming an avowed candidate for the Republican nomination to the presidency.

And a State Department poll showing Americans overwhelmingly in favor of holding firm in West Berlin is reported to have been a large factor in the administration's decision for an exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev.

As do poll-influenced decisions generally, these reliances on opinion-sampling techniques make us wonder sometimes what leadership and citizenship are coming to in this country.

Would the administration have foregone the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange if a poll had shown most Americans weak on West Berlin? Should the leadership of our country be strong or flabby according to what the samplers report to be the muscular state of prevailing opinion?

Should Rockefeller not run unless the polls convince the pros he is the bandwagon and induce them to jump on? Or should a candidate with a program he believes in press forward regardless of apparent odds against him and try to convince the people — and the pros — that they should elect him?

Polls can, we think, be useful if they are kept in their place. But pollism, which is the tendency to be led around by the nose by them, is only a new form of defeatism. The prospective candidate waiting to be led by those he aspires to lead, the office-holder who approaches serious decisions as though they were popularity contests, the voter in the voting booth intimidated by fear of being run over by the juggernaut—these are not, we feel sure, the stuff of which our forefathers founded a new nation.

We mean no unkindness to Gov. Rockefeller or to the State Department. Most of us have got more than a touch of pollism by this time, and it is pervasive in commerce as in politics. Perhaps what we need is to put the polls in perspective, as limited and fallible instruments and not as the sovereign product of the ultimate witch-doctor. They may reflect the general state of mind at a given moment, but they can never show what a dauntless leadership and a studious citizenry can make that state of mind into. Let's not ever let the pollsters forget it.

Democratic Split Hurts Party Hopes

WASHINGTON—The extremists among the congressional Democrats are well on the road to defeating their own party in next year's presidential election. The prospects for the Republican nominee, whether he be Vice President Nixon or Gov. Rockefeller of New York, are far better than a month ago. The most able Democrats here, whether sensibly liberal or moderate or conservative, know it, too.

It is not that the Republican Party has suddenly gathered great new strength by its own actions. It is simply that the Democratic fringes on left and right—but mainly on the left because of the special destructiveness of the ultraliberals to any commonsense politics—are progressively putting an impression of theatrical futility over their party's record.

Ultraliberal pressure groups, notably the labor lobby, are wholly in control of the ultraliberals in Congress—in both parties, if it comes to that. If they go on as they are now going on, the Democratic ultraliberals and their pressure-group masters will elect a GOP president in 1960.

The latest and best illustration of the spectacular incompetence of this curious coalition of left and right wingers is in the labor reform issue. They have succeeded in defeating in the House of Representaatives a moderate Democratic reform bill in favor of a "tougher," and essentially Republican, measure.

The winners are several; the Republican Party generally, President Eisenhower—and possibly, for the short run only, the labor leaders themselves, since the net result is likely to be no final congressional action at all in this session.

The position is this: every politican, Democratic or Republican, save a handful of frantic and outright labor stooges, knows perfectly well that the public is demanding some reform.

The Senate has long since passed a reasonable bill, largely the work of Sen. Kennedy. But the House has now adopted a bill which, though perhaps academically not too severe, is entirely too severe to win Senate acceptance.

This has been done by the House for two reasons: 1. Because the rubber-stamp ultraliberals under nakedly arrogant orders from the labor lobbyists, refused at every step to give any assistance to the sensible liberals who wanted to clean up but not to punish labor. 2. Because many of the moderate Southern Democrats, under less arrogant but nevertheless very real orders from business lobbyists, likewise refused assistance to any compromise that was rational from the Democratic viewpoint.

The end of legislative politics is not to lose actions with proud talk of "no compromise." The end of legislative politics is to legislate. The ultraliberals are like a lawyer who, though he always utterly enthralls the jury, also always loses his cases.

Are You Actually Cheating Yourself?

Every one of us has sometimes had a feeling that life is cheating us. What others have is denied to us. What others accomplish we are unable to achieve. A home-loving and devoted family loses an only child in a terrible automobile accident. The father and mother inescapably get the feeling that they have been cheated out of many years of love and enjoyment.

Or a young woman, not more than 10 years from her marriage day, must give up the companionship of her husband. As she watches neighborhood couples move toward the twilight hand-in-hand, does she not grieve more deeply and think that she has been shortchanged? Or a man who works as hard as his friends must wonder why they succeed when he fails.

There is little that we can do about such situations. We must smile through our tears. We must pick up the broken pieces of our lives and try to make a new go of it. There is, at least to our limited understandings, neither rhyme nor reason to much that happens to us. We just naturally wonder if life hasn't cheated us.

Even more common are the times when we cheat ourselves. We are contented to live in a contracted and narrow world when beyond us lies a large, exciting experience which we may have for the asking. We have only a handful of friends when if we so wished we might have friends by the armsful. Or we give only a meager portion of ourselves to our work, our homes and our communities. We live life on the narrow margin when we might enjoy life by heaping and full measures.

Robert Frost has a poem called "The Gift Outright." In the poem he considers those many years in our nation's history when we did not think of ourselves as Americans. We thought of ourselves as still belonging to the old country. The land was here, a rich and vast heritage which we might claim as our own. But we were as yet still claimed by others.

Here is a portion of Frost's poem: "The land was ours before we were the land's. . . . She was our land more than a hundred years . . . Before we were her people. She was ours in Massachusetts, in Virginia; . . . But we were England's, still colonials, . . . Possessing what we still were unpossessed by, . . . Possessed by what we now no more possessed."

This portion of Frost's poem suggests to me an experience which is common enough in all of life. We have before us a rich and full heritage, a gift representing our heavenly Father's love. It is something which may be ours. We can claim and possess it. But we have given ourselves away to that which is less valuable and less meaningful.

God charges nothing for the abundant gifts He offers, but a gift means nothing if there are no takers. As long as we hold our hands behind our backs we are cheating ourselves.

Greener Okra For the Gumbo

So you think the edibility of okra has nothing to do with air freight! Then you haven't listened to Dick Pulver, aeronautically knowledgeable new manager at Lockheed in Georgia. Dick Pulver was quoting Earl Slick, president of the air freight line which has ordered six C130 cargo carriers. The Slick Airways prexy in turn was quoting a Texas truck farmer who says how well okra sells depends on how quick he can reach a market. Say, like Chicago.

So—if you can set a jet-prop air freighter down between the okra rows, load it with tons of the stuff and fly it to market, brother, you may have it made. Not gumbo, but a good profit.

That is, if enough people like okra. Which I don't. But my not liking okra does not spell ruin for the air freight business.

* * *

OF ALL THINGS: In an informal and informative conference before taking over from Carl Kotchian, new manager Pulver said:

(1) Lockheed is "sure as heck here to stay."

(2) It takes 200 million dollars a year in sales to keep 15,000 folks working at Lockheed.

(3) The new GL (for Georgia Lockheed) 207 cargo model also carries the number "25." That means the version is the 25th blueprint of this one plane as engineers work to "optimize" it before it is built. "Optimize," I would judge, means to incorporate the very latest refinements.

(4) "Fly by July" is the slogan-objective for the first JetStar to be turned out in Georgia. "Hardware" is being produced for the JetStar now. "Hardware" seems to be the in-plant word for component parts.

A "hardware hemorrhage" is what happens when too hot a fuel causes an engine to disintegrate. Or melt. "Something like a cracked block?" I asked the affable Mr. Pulver, who is 46, by the way. "Something like that," he said. "Only worse."

* * *

BOOSTER: And speaking of Carl Kotchian, whom we hate to lose, that estimable gentleman said in parting, "This state (Georgia) has more to offer industry than any other: Climate, space, water, good people, transportation, location — more of all the good things wrapped up into one package than you can find anywhere else. The Atlanta area may be reaching the million population mark in October, but the space and other factors for growth are so abundant here, the area is still only scratching the surface of its potential."

Little Rock Story Is Reversed in '59

WASHINGTON—This time it is different in Little Rock. This time the people of Little Rock are carrying out a modest racial integration of two public high schools by their own choice in their own way. The reason they are able to do so is that Gov. Faubus has been restrained by the courts from denying to Little Rock the rights of local self-government, which is the very heart of American democracy.

It is true that a group of about 250 people, who had earlier gathered on the lawn of the State Capitol and been welcomed by the governor, sought to demonstrate against the opening of Central High School on an integrated basis — and were dispersed by the police.

But the fact which will live longer than the headlines, which read about the same in many newspapers — "Police battle taunting crowd as Little Rock schools open" — was contained in the body of the Associated Press dispatch. It was this: "Inside Central, classes went on peacefully."

And what is the great difference between this time and September, 1957?

This time the forces of law and order in Little Rock are free to help carry out — instead of to thwart — the democratically arrived-at decision of the people of Little Rock. The decision which the people of Little Rock made in the last elections to the school board was that, however much they dislike integration, they preferred limited integration to unlimited ignorance for their children.

We should bear in mind that the original decision two years ago to register a few Negro students at Central High represented faithful, locally decided compliance with the Supreme Court decision of 1954.

The court had ruled that "equal but separate" school facilities were not equal under the 14th Amendment, but had left to the school authorities of each district to determine, in light of local conditions, the place, the time, the circumstances by which the decision would be carried out and left with the district courts to approve or disapprove of what was done.

The proposed modest integration of Central High was not ordered from Washington. It was worked out by the Little Rock School Board, it was protested and enjoined by a group of Little Rock parents and after hearings the district court had directed the school board to proceed with its plans.

Obviously there were going to be emotional tension, picketing, demonstrations and possibly efforts to use violence to interfere with the attendance of the Negro students at school.

Gov. Faubus called out the National Guard on the side of the mob, not on the side of the law.

City Gets Tax Plan, Lets Airport Parking

By MARION GAINES

Ald. James E. Jackson Monday outlined before the Atlanta aldermanic board a business license tax proposal which he said would raise an estimated $1,250,000 next year without resorting to the hotly debated gross receipts tax.

While deferring action on the Jackson proposal, aldermen approved another controversial item by awarding parking concessions at the new airport to the Roy Livingston Co.

Calling his proposal merely a "stop-gap" method for 1960, Jackson introduced a three-part formula for increasing business license fees which would require every Atlanta merchant to:

1. Pay a license fee based on current rates. 2. Pay a registration fee of $25 or $50, depending on size of business. 3. Pay a $3 per capita fee for each employe.

The Jackson plan would eliminate the gross receipts segment of the proposed fee revision which has drawn the fire of Atlanta business leaders.

The aldermanic finance committee Sunday decided to call for plans other than the gross receipts proposal. They are to be submitted at a meeting Aug. 26.

Moving to the debated airport parking concessions, Mayor Hartsfield was authorized by the aldermen to execute a 10-year lease with the Livingston-owned Airways Parking Co. and Airways Service, Inc.

Ald. Jesse Draper, aviation committee chairman, said later officials "are tickled to death" with the Livingston offer despite claims by two other parking firms that they could tender offers giving the city more revenue.

The contract with Livingston calls for the city to receive 60 to 70 per cent of the gross revenue from open-lot parking with a guaranteed minimum of $150,000 per annum for the first two years of the lease and $175,000 per year thereafter.

Newsstand concessions at the new air terminal will be handled by Airport News Corp. under a resolution approved by the aldermen. It will give the city 10 per cent of gross receipts up to $350,000, 12 per cent of from $350,000 to $500,000, and 15 per cent of that in excess of $500,000.

In another action, aldermen voted 12-to-3 against a proposal by Ald. Douglas Wood to rezone a 645-foot stretch on the west side of Stewart avenue, beginning at Genessee street, from residential to commercial uses.

40-Hour Work Week Rejected by Thrasher

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. balked Monday at Gov. Vandiver's suggestion that all departments of state government go on a 40-hour work week.

Thrasher said he doesn't intend to put his department on a flat 40-hour week "until sombody shows me that's the most economical way to operate."

In a memorandum to department heads last week, Vandiver "suggested" that all state employes be required to work at least 40 hours a week. His action was in line with a suggestion from his Commission on Economy and Reorganization. The commission reported that some departments were working only 35 hours a week.

ADVISERS HIT

Thrasher said he was sure the governor was "sincere" in his action, but he said, "Whoever got up that suggestion didn't give him the whole story."

Vandiver last week put his own office on an 8:15 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule with a 45-minute lunch break. He indicated he would ask the General Assembly in January for legislation requiring similar 40-hour schedule for all departments.

Thrasher said there just isn't enough public transportation available to handle the great exodus from the capital every afternoon if all employes get off work at the same time.

FEARS JAM

The streets can't handle the traffic to and from the capital, nor can parking facilities accommodate all the private cars, if everybody comes and goes at the same time, he said.

The cafeteria which serves capitol personnel wouldn't be able to serve lunch to all the people who would have their lunch periods at approximately the same time, he added.

Thrasher said his own policy has been to assign work loads—rather than hours—to the employes in the Department of Audits.

"Our people work on a work basis, rather than an hour basis," he said.

TASKS SET TIME

"I tell them, 'This is the job to be done. Work until you get it done.'

"That's the only way I've been able to keep up with a work load that's increased about 10 times while the staff in my office was increasing at a much lower rate."

He added:

"As far as my policy is concerned, unless somebody shows me it can be operated more economically the other way, I don't propose to make a change."

He said the people who "thought up the idea and presented it to the governor" apparently had a "preconceived idea" and didn't bother to study the whole thing out.

"They didn't give him the whole story," Thrasher said.

Judge Denied More Funds For Expenses

A Fulton Superior Court judge who asked for more money from the county to make a convention trip has been told that the county's commissioners made ther decision when they set travel allowances at $20 a day.

Judge Ralph H. Pharr wrote the commissioners, requesting they advance him $150 more than the $220.50 advanced him by County Manager A. E. Fuller under the county's convention travel regulations.

The judge said the amount provided him to attend the American Bar Assn. meeting in Miami "does not allow me anything for meals, tips, taxis and similar items."

SPEAKS BLUNTLY

Judge Pharr noted that $500 was set up in his budget for the trip and told the commissioners bluntly, "I do not expect to steal any of the county's money."

Fuller said he computed the money on a basis of $20 per day, plus registration fees and transportation. The judge is to leave here Aug. 22 and return Aug. 27. Registration is $15 and airfare round-trip is $85.50.

Fuller said he discussed the matter with Judge Pharr and said the judge told him "he just didn't think it was enough."

"DECISION MADE"

The county manager noted that the judge had addressed his appeal on the matter to the commissioners, but said he told Judge Pharr "the decision has already been made."

Fuller explained that he felt the commissioners made up their minds on the matter of travel expenses when they recently increased travel expenses from $18 to $20 per day. Old regulations also provided only $10 per day while en route.

"We recovered the space monkeys"

The nose cone from every missile that blasts into space from Cape Canaveral must be retrieved—or we lose its priceless cargo of data. That's why space monkeys Able and Baker had to be recovered!

The men who catch these rocket cones barehanded are a new breed of Navy daredevil. Under command of Rear Adm. Dan Gallery, their "outfield" is the shark-infested mid-Atlantic. The game they play is tense and always dangerous. But the tricks they learn someday may help man travel to the stars and back.

Lt. (j.g.) R. Edward Foy tells his own dramatic story in this week's Post. He'll take you diving among sharks and into tossing eight-foot waves. You'll learn:

- how the space monkeys, Able and Baker, were nearly lost.
- how our nose cones are rigged to float, but sometimes sink.
- how Russian subs could intercept our test missiles.
- how three men on a raft can tell where the cone will hit.

Senate Kills Bids for Cut In Housing

Compromise Bill Survives Round 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Monday defeated a series of efforts to strip down the new $1,050,000,000 housing bill even though Republicans insisted the measure might face another veto.

The leadership had hoped to pass the compromise bill Monday night but finally adjourned the Senate without a late night session. More amendments were waiting for Tuesday.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), floor manager for the measure, said he was certain it would clear the Senate and go to the House Tuesday. Housing is one of the items the leaders want disposed of before final adjournment.

PROVISION SURVIVES

The Senate not only turned back all efforts to trim the bill, but retained a provision designed to force the administration to take a new omnibus housing bill next year.

These were the votes by which the Senate rejected attempts to bring the measure more in line with administration views:

Defeated 53-40 an amendment of Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) to eliminate the 50-million-dollar loan program for college classrooms.

Defeated 53-41 an amendment of Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) to knock out the classroom program but add the 50 million to 250 million in loans already in the bill for college dormitories.

AMENDMENT LOSES

Defeated 51-40 an amendment of Sen. J. Allen Frear (D-Del) to cut the authorization for new public housing units in the bill from 37,000 to 25,000.

Defeated 56-27 an amendment of Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) to extend the FHA mortgage insurance authority to Oct. 1, 1961, instead of Oct. 1, 1960, as the bill provides.

Robertson and several Republicans argued that the classroom provision in the bill was one to which President Eisenhower objected most strongly. They said it alone could lead to a veto.

The new bill is a trimmed-down substitute for one Eisenhower vetoed last month. It has authorizations in it for all of the major housing aid programs of its predecessor, but in a pared - down form.

'Scottsboro Boy' Identified as Killer

NEW YORK (AP)—A 42-year-old Negro man, who killed his wife and then himself Sunday, has been identified as one of the nine Scottsboro boys who escaped the electric chair after being convicted of raping two white women.

Police said Arthur Leroy Wright, a merchant seaman who fired five bullets into his wife, Kathleen, 36, before killing himself, was identified as the youngest of the Scottsboro boys by a brother, James.

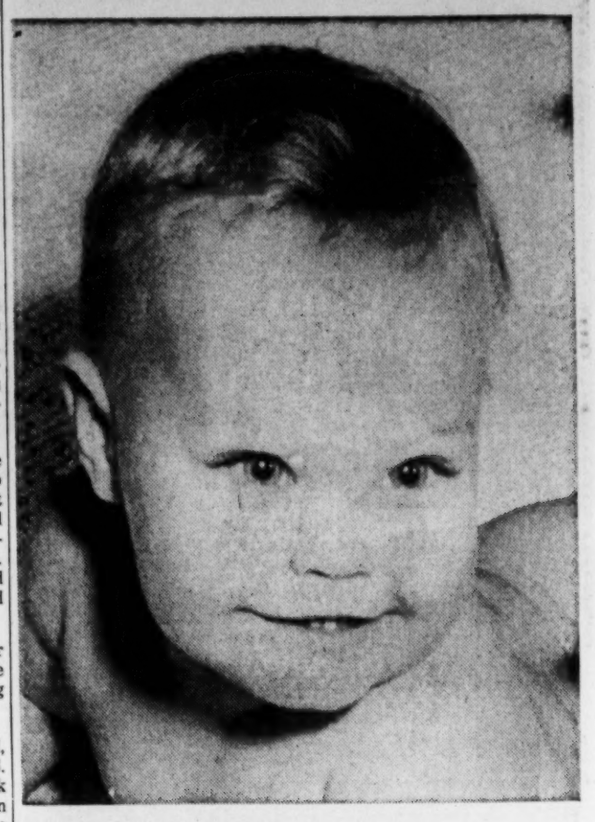

Wright shot and killed his wife during an argument in which he accused her of being unfaithful. Then, he eluded police in a seven-mile auto chase, returned to his Harlem apartment, and shot himself.

The celebrated Scottsboro case erupted in March 1931, when two white girls climbed off a freight train at Scottsboro, Ala., and told authorities they had been the victims of a gang assault. The U.S. Supreme Court twice reversed death sentences for Wright and eight other defendants.

Charges against Wright and four others were dropped in 1937. The other four were sentenced to long terms.

After the charges were dropped, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, who as an attorney took the case to the Supreme Court on both occasions, brought Wright to New York. The late Bill Robinson, famed Negro dancer, took Wright under his wing and placed him in school here.

Cash Shipment Of $141,950 Vanishes in Mail

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP)—A shipment of $141,950 in cash mysteriously vanished from the mails while en route from a bank in Liberty to New York City, it was learned Monday.

The money, destined for the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, was sent Aug. 6 by registered mail by the Sullivan County National Bank.

The reserve bank reported to the New York Post Office on Aug. 12 that the money had not been received.

Rockefeller Won't Rely On Polls

By LEO EGAN

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

ALBANY—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Monday he will base his decision on whether to seek the presidency on his own evaluation of his ability to render effective and constructive public service, not on any public opinion polls.

The state's 51-year-old chief executive likewise brushed aside as inaccurate reports that he had fixed an early November deadline for deciding whether to seek the Republican nomination. "I have no timetable for trying to make a decision," he emphasized.

NO DECISION

Rockefeller continued to insist Monday that he has made no decision yet on whether to become a candidate. His statements suggested, however, that he is nearer now to entering the race than he has been since his election as governor last year.

At a press conference here, Rockefeller appeared anxious to spike reports that his decision would depend primarily on whether opinion polls gave him a better chance of winning than Vice President Nixon.

DIDN'T SAY IT

Asked Monday about Nixon's statement in Chicago last week that polls would not be any factor in his own decision on whether to seek the presidential nomination, Rockefeller commented:

"It has been widely attributed to me that the converse of that was the case as far as I am concerned. I should like to state that I have never made such a statement. I think political-public opinion polls today are a reality of political life but obviously they are only a factor in trying to understand public trends and public reaction. My personal feeling is that while the public is interested in polls they are not a factor in anybody's decision."

NAVY BREAKTHROUGH?

H-Bomb Power Seen Harnessed

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—A small research device in a back room at the Naval Research Laboratory may have scored the scientific breakthrough that could lead to harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb.

But its cautious sponsors are not ready to say that their device has created a thermonuclear, or fusion, reaction.

The Navy scientists, however, are encouraged and excited over the way their device has been performing in recent weeks, apparently reaching temperatures as high as 15,000,000 degrees.

Their cautious enthusiasm scarcely conceals their belief that they have in fact produced a controlled thermonuclear reaction.

Dr. Alan C. Kolb of the Laboratory will describe the results obtained from the device Tuesday at an international conference on ionization processes in gas being held in Upsala, Sweden.

Dr. Kolb has directed the controlled thermonuclear research work at the laboratory with the assistance of Dr. William R. Faust and Hans Griem.

For the past two years Dr. Kolb and his associates have been carrying on their research at the Naval Research Laboratory here as part of the Atomic Energy Commission's multi-million-dollar program to harness the power of the hydrogen bomb to produce useful power on earth.

'HEART' IS GLASS TUBE

The heart of Dr. Kolb's unnamed device is a glass tube 12 inches long and 1.2 inches in diameter. Surounding the tube is a magnetic coil. The coil is large at each end to provide magnetic "mirrors" confining the gas within the tube.

Into the tube, at low pressure, is pumped a gas composed of deuterium, a heavy form of hydrogen which is found abundantly in the sea and which would constitute a virtually inexhaustible source of fuel if controlled thermonuclear power can be achieved.

FAST ACTION

The gas is heated and confined in a fast-moving sequence of events which lasts only 10 millionths of a second. First an electrical discharge is sent through the gas to ionize it or break it down into positively and negatively charged particles.

Then, with an explosive bang, a huge condenser bank in the basement of the laboratory is triggered, sending a fantastic burst of electricity equal to 30,000,000,000 watts in energy surging through the small metal magnetic coil.

The pulse of electricity passing through the coil sends an imploding shock wave through the tube which explodes the gas away from the surface of the tube and heats the deuterium. Within one millionth of a second the temperature of the gas is raised to 3,000,000 degrees.

CONTINUES TO HEAT

The powerful magnetic field created in the coil continues to heat and constrict the gas in the center of the tube.

The objective of this and other "magnetic bottles" built for thermonuclear research is to heat and confine the ionized gas to the point where the positively charged nuclei of the deuterium atoms (called deuterons) finally acquire enough energy to collide and fuse. In this fusion reaction, which is the source of the vast energy of the sun and the hydrogen bomb, energy and telltale neutrons are emitted.

The key question is whether these observed neutrons are "thermoneuclear," produced by a true thermonuclear reaction going on within the tube, or whether they are the same "false" neutrons which have deceived other scientists who believed they had achieved a controlled fusion reaction.

Stevedores Taken Back By AFL-CIO

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council Monday voted to admit the International Longshoremen's Assn. on a probationary basis.

The 60,000-member ILA was ousted from the AFL six years ago on corruption charges. That was before the AFL merged with the CIO.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said the council okayed admission of the ILA to the combined federation because AFL-CIO leaders are convinced the East and Gulf Coast waterfront union has made substantial progress in ridding itself of hoodlums and correcting corrupt conditions.

The council's action is subject to a vote by the AFL-CIO convention next month in San Francisco. But this appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

Meany said the AFL-CIO's International Brotherhood of Longshoremen, chartered as a new waterfront union when the ILA was ousted, has no objection to taking back the ILA.

He said the two unions have agreed to work out a mutually satisfactory operating arrangement or merge into one union.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE A BABY

Planning for the first baby's arrival needs a little more thought than most mothers-to-be realize. After your doctor has broken the really big news, you'll need help in making preparations for B-day: the layette, advice on emotional problems, Dad's role, care of premature babies and post natal care. Atlanta Constitution staff writer Joyce Gemmill begins the series "So You're Going to Have a Baby" in this Sunday's Atlanta Journal and Constitution. Four subsequent articles will appear on the women's pages of the daily Atlanta Constitution.

TRAIN BLOCKS HIGHWAY—ASHBURN—Thirty-four box cars of a 225-car freight train derailed in two sections Monday, piling four box cars onto U.S. 41 about 11 miles north of here. Five diesel units were hauling the more than a mile-long Georgia Southern and Florida Railway freight. An unidentified motorist barely missed piling disastrously into the box cars stacked two deep on the highway. No one was injured in the derailment that occurred in two sections about a mile apart.

Labor Bill Deadlock Ruled Out

Senate to accept the House bill and send it directly to the White House.

The South Dakota Republican got little support, even among a number of GOP senators who favored the House bill or something stronger. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz), for one, said he hopes a better bill than either the Senate or House versions can be hammered out in conference.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas predicted the conferees will agree on a strong and workable bill for curbing abuses in labor unions.

He contended differences between the House and Senate bills have been exaggerated, and that some of the Senate measure's antiracketeering provisions are stronger than those in the House draft.

Johnson told the Senate he is willing to stay in Washington until Jan. 3—when the next session is due to meet — if that becomes necessary to make certain a labor control bill is passed this session.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), a chief sponsor of the Senate bill, joined Johnson in asserting there will be a bill this year.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) flatly predicted to The Atlanta Constitution that "there will be a labor bill" enacted at this session.

(He indicated he thinks the bill finally agreed upon will come close to the Landrum-Griffin prohibitions against secondary boycotts. "Something must be done about secondary boycotts," Russell said.)

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois pressed the Democratic leaders for assurances there would be no undue delay in the conference committee.

Kennedy, head of the Senate conferees, said he believed it would be at least next week before the conferees could tell whether agreement was possible.

Johnson said that if an agreement cannot be worked out in a reasonable time, Kennedy will come back to the Senate and ask for instructions on how to proceed.

The Democratic leader noted the Senate has the power to take the matter away from its conferees.

far-reaching and indefensible proposal since the days of Thaddeus Stevens," Ervin said. "If it comes up for consideration I will filibuster against it as long as I am able to stand on the senate floor."

Sen. Russell said Hennings "apparently is incorporating every force provision against the white people of the South suggested by anyone in the last several years.

"The only thing lacking is a provision permitting the national colored peoples' association to adopt regulations and by-laws having the effect of law.

"If pressed in this form, any idea of Congress getting out of here before Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit will have to be dispelled.

"A bill in this form would be subject to very lengthy discussion. I would welcome an opportunity to make a very lengthy discourse against the provision approving the supreme court decision as the law of the land. I have been looking for an appropriate place to put this on the record."

Russell said flatly that he did not think Congress would pass such a harsh bill. And he added that he does not think northern radicals could even get enough votes to apply cloture against the Southerners on a bill of Hennings' type.

"The Hennings civil rights amendments offered in the Senate today embrace every facet of force legislation ever proposed in Congress and would be a credit to Thaddeus Stevens himself," said Talmadge.

"Not only do they propose to circumvent established legislative procedure, but, even worse, a great portion of them are unconstitutional and would subvert all phases of local government to federal dictation.

"I shall resist these proposals with every resource at my command," Talmadge concluded.

Sen. Thurmond warned that the Hennings maneuver might be a decoy to help pass other civil rights legislation.

Johnston countered Hennings' move by introducing an amendment providing for trial by jury in any criminal contempt case coming under the jurisdiction of civil rights legislation.

given them away without the father's permission whether he was back or not," Ellis said. "As far as that is concerned, he could go back to her and get the children back," Ellis suggested.

Mrs. Quisenberry told police she began placing her children with friends and relatives to save them from hunger and want after her husband disappeared.

The husband turned up Saturday in Atlanta and told police here he quit his $100 per week job as a truck driver here to seek employment in his hometown of Toledo, Ohio.

Quisenberry said he loves his family and is "willing to go to court right now and get this settled."

First Asst. Sol. R. M. George of Criminal Court, who ordered dismissal of the charges against Mrs. Quisenberry, said she "couldn't be guilty" of neglect or abandonment because she "placed the children in the care of people who are caring for the children."

George said he discussed the matter with Mrs. Quisenberry and she told him she wanted to take her children back.

"I think the woman needs help," he added.

George said Mrs. Quisenberry "did tell me she signed some papers agreeing to adoption of the children, but that was done because she was penniless. She wouldn't be chargeable anyway, since it is the father's responsibility to support his family."

The solicitor wrote Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes to release her because the evidence "would be wholly insufficient to warrant a conviction."

Regarding the gray market investigation, Ellis said there were indications that Mrs. Quisenberry had been influenced into disposing of her children.

Departmental records showed she made application for assistance on July 28 and was told to come back within three weeks, the legal period she would have to wait to file legal proceedings against her husband.

Ellis said she would have been eligible for assistance on Aug. 4 when she was scheduled to return, based on the number of children who were still in her care. By that time, however, the mother had disposed of all but one of her children, it was learned, and was in Tampa, Fla.

A source also said that the Welfare department had received inquiries from four people who indicated they were planning to adopt the children. Three of these parties were represented by attorneys.

Information also reached the department that at least one of the parties paid Mrs. Quisenberry $20 and another "took her to Florida," a source related.

Mrs. Quisenberry was not unknown to the Welfare department. Her first contact was in May of 1957 when she came here from Clayton County and applied for assistance after her husband had left her.

She was subsequently given emergency assistance for a three-day period.

Policewoman Emily Thacker also said "this isn't the first time he had left his family. He seemed to leave every time she had another baby."

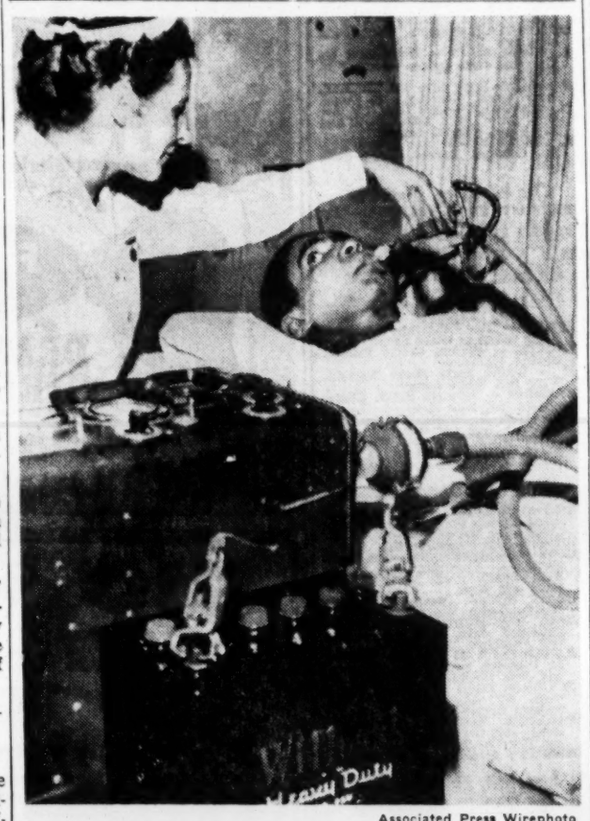

What will happen to the children now, Ellis said, is a matter for determination by Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Woolfolk. The children are now in the custody of the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Oveta Turman, a widow, and with friends of the family.

Atlantic Storm Building Up Into Hurricane Edith

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17 (AP)—The San Juan Weather Bureau Monday night said Tropical Storm Edith appears to be developing into a full-fledged hurricane about 175 miles east of Martinique, in the French West Indies.

The storm is packing winds up to 50 m.p.h., but is expected to grow to hurricane force late Tuesday afternoon.

The Bureau, in its second advisory at 11 p.m. (est), said the storm is advancing toward the west northwest at 12 miles an hour. Its winds extend about 100 miles to the north of its center.

white students outside the school Friday.

Thomas denied this.

"There was no fight Friday," he said.

Knoop was not available for comment.

Ted L. Lamb, school board secretary, said Supt. Terrell E. Powell had assured him that no disciplinary problems, resulting from fights or other incidents, had been reported at the two high schools. Lamb also denied Pruden's charge that plainclothes police officers patrolled Central's corridors.

Police Chief Gene Smith had declined any comment on this charge until he saw a copy of the telegram.

Three Negro children sued in federal court for admission to Dollarway School. On Aug. 4, U.S. District Judge Axel J. Beck of Elk Point, S.D., ordered the Dollarway School Board to admit the Negroes when the fall term begins Sept. 8.

Judge Beck, on temporary assignment in Arkansas, ruled the board had misapplied the state pupil placement laws in a "cover-up to conceal its segregationist attitude."

Under the placement laws—used by the Little Rock School Board to control desegregation — students may be assigned to schools for numerous reasons but not race.

Uncanny Dark Grips Manhattan As Heat Wave Cuts Off Power

tricity. Extra guards were assigned to the institutions.

In apartment houses on the East Side and along Central Park West scores of persons were caught in stalled elevators. Thousands were stranded high above the street.

Luckily, traffic in mid-August is much lighter than normal, so the expected rush-hour jams failed to develop. Floodlight trucks were assigned to busy intersections.

The subway's third rail power was not affected. But with no signal the motormen refused to move their trains until subway employes, using lanterns and hand signals, were sent underground to get them moving.

From the open windows of tenements the familiar blare of radios and television sets was absent. In fashionable apartment buildings, residents stranded on upper floors also missed TV entertainment. The stillness was uncanny.

Ice-cream melted in refrigerators. Beer became warm.

When darkness fell, crime prevention as well as traffic control presented a problem. Central Park, notorious for muggings, was without lights.

Consolidated Edison threw 10,000 repairmen into the affected area. Some of them carried radar-like electronic equipment to locate feeder line breaks.

Monday's temperature, blamed for the power failure, reached 89 degrees at 4 p.m. It carried with it a temperature-humidity index of 81, which meant discomfort for everyone.

The Weather Bureau reported the hot, humid weather would continue most of the week, with high temperatures of around 90 Tuesday. A few local thundershowers may occur Tuesday afternoon or night.

An operation was in progress at Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospital when the power failed. But the surgery continued without interruption when emergency battery lighting was turned on immediately.

When refrigeration failed at Mount Sinai Hospital, 200 units of blood plasma were sent to an unaffected hospital. At Mount Sinai, Lenox Hill and Doctors' hospitals, all operations except emergency cases were postponed.

Hotel Option Is Approved For Jekyll

The authority awarded the option to J. Wade Linder of Atlanta and other developers for $1,000. The option runs for six months.

Linder was identified as a former operator of hotels in Atlanta and Daytona Beach.

Plans for the hotel, to be called the Sir Joseph Jekyll, call for 180 rooms with 24 additional cottages and the addition of 112 rooms at a later date.

The state will get $8,500 a year on the lease-rental of the property where the hotel is to be built.

Tokyo Princess Expects Child

TOKYO (AP) — The Imperial Palace in effect confirmed Monday that Crown Princess Michiko is expecting a child, by naming a maternity doctor for her. Earlier announcements have said only that the 24-year-old princess, who married Crown Prince Akihito April 10, "may be pregnant." Dr. Takashi Kobayashi, 50, Tokyo University obstetrician and former director of a maternity ward, will be Michiko's maternity physician.

Fiery Crash Kills Pilot at Woodbury

Constitution State News Service

WOODBURY—A twin-engine jet trainer crashed into a pecan grove and exploded in flames inside the Woodbury city limits Monday.

The pilot and sole occupant of the jet, Aviation Cadet Edward W. Magee of Bristol, R.I., was killed. Magee, who was taking his primary training at Bainbridge was scheduled to graduate in October.

The plane crashed 35 feet from the two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Thurmond. Four persons were in the house. All the windows on the side of the house were shattered. A sheet of flame threatened to engulf the Thurmond's car but Mrs. Thurmond ran out of the house and drove the car to safety.

Mrs. Thurmond said she heard the plane roaring over the house about 9 a.m. and then a loud explosion.

SITTING AT TABLE

"I knew immediately that a plane had crashed. My father-in-law (L. G. McClelland of Columbus) was sitting at the breakfast table when the crash occurred. He's a little hard of hearing. He said to me, 'You Know, I think a car just crashed into the house.'"

Mrs. Thurmond said a 12-year-old baby sitter and an 8-month-old baby were in the upstairs apartment of the Thurmond home.

"The babysitter was so excited that she couldn't speak. She just groaned and groaned after the crash. But the baby didn't seem a bit upset," Mrs. Thurmond said.

NEIGHBORS GATHER

"Some neighbors came running over and said someone had dropped a bomb next to the house. But I knew what it was and I wanted to try to help the pilot. But it wasn't any use," she added.

The paint was seared off the Thurmond's car by the flames. Mrs. Thurmond said she didn't think about any danger to herself when she drove the car away from the fire.

The plane dug a huge crater into the edge of the pecan grove. Wreckage was scattered for 100 yards.

The two-seater T-37 training craft was en route from Bainbridge to Atlanta on a routine training flight, the Air Force reported.

Warner Robins Air Force investigators flew to the scene by helicopter. They were not immediately able to determine the cause of the crash.

One-Room Schoolhouse Fading Rapidly from the Georgia Scene

The one-room schoolhouse, once the backbone of the Georgia public school system, is disappearing.

State Education department records Monday showed that when schools open for the 1959-60 term next month less than a dozen of the one-room, one-teacher schools will still be in operation in the state.

For many years the one-room, lone-teacher school was the rule rather than the exception throughout Georgia. As late as 1930 there were 3,522 in operation, 927 of them white schools and 2,595 Negro.

State Puts Surplus at $6 Million

Vandiver Tells Of Fiscal Gains

Constitution State News Service

JEKYLL ISLAND—Georgia finished the 1959 fiscal year "a million dollars to the good" and the state's net operating surplus has been increased from $2,600,000 to $6 million, Gov. Vandiver said here Monday night.

In an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Georgia Association of Broadcasters, Vandiver said:

"Through economies, applied day by day and hour by hour, through more efficient practices instituted in every department and agency, through better purchasing methods, through reorganization in the Revenue department, we wound up the 1959 fiscal year 'in the black.'

"Your state government is meeting its essential needs in the current fiscal year within the framework of the existing revenue structure without any new taxes of any kind whatsoever," he said.

'FEDERAL MEDDLING'

In commenting on the demand at the state level for more and expanded services, Vandiver took a poke at the federal government:

"Notwithstanding the multitude of state fiscal problems confronting us, we have the ever-present threat of federal meddling and domination in our purely internal affairs."

The governor pointed with pride to work of various state departments, specifically mentioning results in the office of Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford.

"With 200 less employes and with a budget reduced by some three-quarters of a million dollars, he collected in additional revenue $13.5 million, an accomplishment which, coupled with the administration's economy program, has made it possible for us to balance both the '59 and '60 budgets."

EDWARDS ELECTED

Ralph Edwards, radio station WWGS, Tifton, was elected President of the Broadcasters.

He succeeds Frank Gaither, WSB, Atlanta, who was named to the Board of Directors.

Jodrell to Try Venus Bounce

LONDON (AP)—Jodrell Bank's radio telescope will attempt to bounce radio waves off the planet Venus probably next month.

Lovell did not explain the exact scientific purpose of the experiment, but Jodrell Bank already has announced it plans to undertake a systematic program of getting radio echoes from the planets.

Most important results of the tests may include more accurate measurement of the planet's distance from the earth.

WOODROW WILSON COLLEGE OF LAW

NIGHT CLASSES BEGINNING SEPT. 10TH

Write or Phone for Catalog.

Atlanta 3, Ga. JA. 2-3661

Doctor Reappears, Shaves and Leaves

Dr. Frank Wood, the Atlanta physician who disappeared on his way to Marietta Friday, returned home Monday night.

His sister-in-law said he returned to his West Paces Ferry road home late Monday, changed clothes and shaved off "a three-day growth of beard." He immediately left again with his wife.

Later Mrs. Wood called home to tell the sister-in-law, Mrs. B. J. Rainwater of Alpharetta, that Dr. Wood was exhausted physically and mentally and would stay in seclusion to take a complete rest for a while.

Mrs. Rainwater said Dr. Wood did not immediately account for the three days. The family had asked police to help find him.

The physician had called his home a few hours before he returned Monday night. Mrs. Wood fainted when he spoke to her on the phone. Then Dr. Wood told Mrs. Rainwater he was all right and coming home.

After he arrived home, Mrs. Rainwater said, he cleaned up and he and Mrs. Wood went out to talk. A little later Mrs. Wood phoned her sister-in-law and asked her to take care of her four children until she could return.

"I don't think they want any publicity," Mrs. Rainwater said. "He's back. That's the important thing."

Motorcycle Crashes Head-On Into Car

An Atlanta Negro motorcyclist was reported in critical condition at Grady Hospital with multiple injuries late Monday night after his machine collided with an automobile in Henry County, the State Patrol reported.

Willie Freeman, 54, of 20 Anderson Ave., was injured when he attempted to pass a truck on Highway 42, a mile north of Stockbridge, and ran head-on into an automobile, police said.

The State Patrol said no charges were made against the automobile driver, John William Hammonds, who lives near Stockbridge.

Gay Lays Road Toll To Apathy

More enforcement officers, stricter enforcement and better cooperation of the courts will help curb traffic offenses and traffic deaths.

This opinion was expressed by early arrivals at the Dinkler Plaza for the Georgia Peace Officers Assn. annual convention.

Sheriff Carlus Gay of Laurens County, president of the association, said Monday night that public apathy is largely responsible for the number of traffic deaths in the state.

PATROL NEED CITED

He said that the public is more concerned with raising money to help the cancer and heart funds than they are in providing funds for traffic enforcement, even though traffic kills more people each year than these diseases together, he said.

Georgia needs an increase of at least one-third in all its enforcement agencies, he said.

"If we had twice as many as we have," said Lt. J. W. Robertson of the Georgia State Patrol, Troop C," we wouldn't have enough."

UNMARKED CARS?

A mixture of marked and unmarked cars, plus public awareness of unmarked cars, would also help in stopping traffic offenses, said Captain E. D. Mink of the State Patrol in Atlanta.

L. P. Allen, sheriff of Harrellson County, said he favors taking a violator before a judge immediately rather than taking cash bail on the spot. This makes a greater impression on a violator, he said.

Gay and the other officers said they believe radar would be very effective in catching violators and preventing violations.

Gay said a court can, by its sentence, prevent another occurcurrence.

The officers pointed out that suspending licenses is one of the most effective methods of controlling traffic violations that Georgia has.

Speakers Tuesday will include James H. Aldredge, Fulton County commission chairman, and Lt. Gov. Byrd. Wednesday afternoon Gov. Vandiver will speak. Sen. Talmadge will address a banquet Wednesday night.

Farmer, 15, Feting 200 At Boy Club

About 200 members of the Atlanta Boys Club will be treated to a chicken fry Wednesday night through the generosity of a young Cobb County part-time chicken farmer.

Herman B. Guinn, executive director of the Atlanta Boys Club, said Ronald Barfield, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Barfield of Powder Springs, will provide chickens for the meal at the club.

Young Barfield raises chickens in his spare time and finds it a worthwhile enjoyment. "I make pretty good money raising chickens, and that's what I want to do for a living," Barfield said. "My father is in the poultry business, and I guess that's where I get my interest."

Barfield is an active 4-H Club member and recently entered the senior poultry division at the 4-H Achievement Meeting in Rock Eagle. "I enjoy my work in the 4-H Club and I take an enthusiastic interest in all its activities."

Barfield says that he is in the poultry business to stay, and when he finished high school, he plans to study animal husbandry in college.

5 of 7 in Council Stalk Out at Forest Park

Wells, however, would not relinquish his vote. Reeves said that Wells had resigned as mayor pro tem last week and, therefore, there was no mayor pro tem.

Councilman Addis asked the mayor to return to his seat and conduct the business "as a gentleman."

Citizens cheered and some shouted, . . . "If he can be a gentleman" and "Go on, mayor, be a man."

After reclaiming his chair, the mayor called all previous actions "null and void because no chairman had presided. Addis objected and asked the mayor why he abandoned the chair.

"I don't have to give any reason," Strietelmeier answered, "and if you get to be mayor, if that should happen to this town, you can do it, too."

Addis moved to recess until Wednesday night and the council passed it. The mayor vetoed the proposal.

"It won't do any good," he said, "It won't be any different next Wednesday."

He asked the council to join him in a group resignation to allow citizens to elect anyone they desired. Onlookers cheered his speech.

Then the mayor called Addis a "political coward." More cheers.

Addis said he had come to do business and could not cope with the city attorney's opinions and the vacancy in the mayor's chair. He left the meeting with councilmen Lopez, Walter White, Dunn and Martin Wells.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

Stash Golf Cart! Enjoy Walking!

Is our great game of golf to be mechanized like so many activities of the twentieth century? Will the enjoyment of the walk between the shots be no longer part of the game? Do these people just want to make as few strokes as possible to record a good score? Yes, they are in the open air but running that strange little cart over lovely turf which feels so good under the walking feet — is that not approaching desecration.

Then comes the real crux of the matter. Is this mode of transportation on the golf course limited to those restricted by real physical handicaps? If so, all we can say is: Good! Let them play the subtotal game as long as possible and enjoy it!

There are those who, recuperating from some injury or illness, need the cart for a while but then get so used to not walking that they hate or fear to start it again.

For this group there is just one curt bit of advice: Get out of that cart and use those legs and feet of yours again; they were made for golf just as definitely as your clubs were.

The other group who should not be riding around in a cart are those who have gotten so lazy or perhaps so fat and lazy they find that they don't huff and puff when they ride around those fairways (and roughs). They are victims of the softness that has pervaded our modern life, perhaps more in this country than in others. They actually need the full undiluted game to lessen the huff and the puff and to beautify their contour by changing fatty tissue into well-toned muscle.

There are also those who say that when they use a cart they can go home and still feel up to a bit of gardening, whereas after a genuine game they are too tired to do anything else. My suggestion for this group is to play golf and to garden on alternate days, if garden they must. Sometimes, however, that bit of a nap after a golf game restores the body as well as the mind enough to take on another chore.

So let's leave the carts to the golf lovers who are physically unfit to walk around the course. For the rest of us, let's use what nature gave us to get around with! The dividend will be better health!

(Dr. Jordan cannot undertake to answer personal questions by mail. However, questions of general interest relating to health will be discussed from time to time in this column.)

GOREN on BRIDGE

SOUTH

♣ None

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

Declarer risked going set an extra trick today in an attempt to deceive his opponents. The decoy which he used lured his opponents into misdefending which permitted him to bring home a vulnerable game.

West's double was slightly on the enterprising side. In an effort to conserve his assets, he opened the queen of spades. This was won in the North hand with the king, and a low heart to declarer's eight drove out the queen. The jack of spades came back. At this point the dummy was permanently disconnected from the master hand, and it would seem that the ace of clubs should be cashed to assure that the damages would be limited to a one-trick set. But such action would disclose declarer's entire holding and reveal to the opponents that South had nothing but red cards left, rendering the defense open and shut.

Declarer decided, therefore, to leave the ace of clubs in dummy to serve as a decoy. He played another heart and, on winning with the ace, West got out with a trump, South played three more rounds of hearts, retaining one trump and four diamonds. Dummy's remaining cards were the three clubs, a spade, and diamond.

To West it naturally appeared that South had some threatening holding in clubs, and he decided to keep that suit intact. He, therefore, let go a diamond and held on to K-10-9 of clubs and K-9 of diamonds. East, too, stood in fear of the club suit and decided to hold on to the Q-7-5. This left him with a spade and a diamond.

Declarer now plawed the ace and another diamond, felling the entire suit, and claimed the remainder of the tricks.

We do not hold forth on the quality of the defense. Had East, for example, signaled in clubs as trumps were being led, the issue might have been clarified for West, but this one does not bar us from applauding South's neat bit of camouflage.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

'Hey, Joe, We've Shrunk!' ... Got an Old Cannon?

Jim and Joe had been shipwrecked on a desert island in the Pacific since the days of World War II. One day Jim saw a bottle floating in the surf. Jim waded out and picked it up. It was one of the new "king size" Coke bottles. Jim looked at it a minute, then shrieked: "Hey, Joe, we've shrunk!"

What Do You Use for Whittlin' Wood?

The advent of the pasteboard box and the plastic bag has played hob with one hobby—whittlin'. It's getting so you can hardly find any good whittling wood anywhere. Back in the old days, wooden boxes were made of white pine—the best whittlin' wood in the world.

There are advocates of balsa—but it's just a little too soft for an honest-to-goodness whittler. Modern wooden boxes are made out of a splintery, useless stuff—useless for whittlin', anyway.

Back in the white pine days a good whittler could whittle a ball in a box and the box on the end of a chain—all whittled out of one piece of wood. It would take him a week to do it and it served no purpose when it was fininshed, but the whittlin' was mighty soul-satisfying.

Better than television.

Any Old Cannon Lying Around the House?

A Yankee outfit, the First Michigan Light Artillery, is looking for some Civil War cannon. Why they should extend their search to this Rebel stronghold, no one knows. But they are looking.

The artillery outfit was "reactivated" a few years ago to participate in the North-South Skirmish—a mock battle with muzzle-loaders staged every year at the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. The Marines, who sponsor the matches, are helping the Yankees find a cannon or so.

The First Michigan fought at Cold Harbor, Chickamauga and was with Sherman when that fellow paid his visit to Georgia. Maybe here is where they lost their guns the first time, and so they are looking here for them.

Steam Trains Gain Popularity, It Seems

Everybody is running a "last" steam train. Out in Oklahoma, the Rock Island line is heating up Old Number Nine for a special trip from Chickasha to Anadarko to open the annual American Indian Exposition at Anadarko.

Don't forget Georgia's last steam train excursion Sept. 19, when Seaboard will run a round trip from Atlanta to Athens to Gainesville back to Athens and back to Atlanta. The Athens-Gainesville and return portion of the trip will be powered by steam.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Krushchev will return the vice president's visit."—News item.

It's dangerous to be a "guest" . . . (And maybe, that should be explained) . . . You visit some friend for a rest . . . And you are "roundly entertained" . . . When you depart, you thank your friend . . . For all the things he did for you . . . And certainly, you must extend . . . An urgent invitation, too.

Some day the telephone will ring . . . And he'll be on the other end . . . He is in town and wants to bring . . . His wife, his children and a friend . . . And there you are, out on a limb . . . As you remember what you said . . . So, all that you can say to him . . . Is, "We're delighted, come ahead."

I knew when Mr. Nixon went . . . To see Nikita and his spouse . . . That he was wrong, he should have spent . . . His visit in some boarding-house.*

Primer for the Stock Market

rule is to find an industry or firm in which you have great faith and stick with it. Of course, this can also lead you to put all your eggs in one basket, a situation with obvious built-in dangers.

Other investors think the best method of buying stock is to concentrate on a geographic area of continuing growth.

ONE BASIC RULE

It's my feeling that more important than any special investment rules is this one basic rule: Do your homework. By this I mean the business of learning through careful study all you can about a company and the industry in which it operates:

How does this industry stand in relation to the economy as a whole—will its product be in demand in lean years as well as in boom years?

Does the industry face new competition from other industries?

Are the products of the company in which you are interested priced competitively with those of other companies in the field and does the company have a stable, aggressive management interested in developing new products and new markets?

Does the firm have a good earnings and dividend record? Have its earnings held up in bad years?

How much must it pay its bondholders before it can pay dividends to its stockholders?

DATA AVAILABLE

All this information is not easy come by. Certainly it is not the sort of thing your broker can always hand you in neatly summarized forms. But it is available, as I shall show you.

Company earnings and dividend records provide two of the basic devices for determining how attractive the market is in general and how attractive individual stocks are in particular. The two devices are the "yield" of a stock and its "price-earnings ratio."

The yield is the amount of income a stock pays its owner annually, expressed as a percentage of its current price. A stock selling for $50 and paying dividends of $2 a year is yielding 4 per cent; a stock selling for $25 and paying $2 is yielding 8 per cent.

The price-earnings ratio is roughly the ratio between the current price of the stock and the company's annual earning on each share of stock outstanding. If a stock is selling for $50 and the company is earning $5 a share, the price-earnings ratio is 10 to 1; a stock selling at $22 in a company with earnings of $1 a share has a 22-to-1 price-earnings ratio.

TWO GOOD RULES

There are two good rules of thumb the prudent investor can use in making a preliminary appraisal of the market: When stocks are showing a low yield—say 1 or 2 or 3 per cent—and selling at high price-earnings ratios—say 20 or 30 to 1—your general assumption must be that the market is too high. When stocks are showing high yields—6 to 7 per cent or more—and the current price can be covered by earnings at current rates within five or 10 years—you can assume this is a good time to invest.

These are only general assumptions. They do not mean there are no good stocks to buy when the market is generally too high or that every stock is safe when the market is generally low. You must investigate the individual stock. The prudent investor uses the yield and price-earnings information for what they are—valuable signposts, but not infallible oracles.

Yield and price-earnings ratio highlight a very important point: The stock market is no place to succumb blindly to mob psychology. It's true that running with the pack gives one a certain sense of security. But the pack is too often wrong—or at least not wholly right.

Frequently the pack—that is, the great majority of investors—is cool toward the market, either because of gloom about the economic future or because of that unexplainable apathy that sometimes seizes the financial world. This can provide the individualistic investor—which means the wise one—with good pickings.

In times of general apathy, uncertainty or gloom, in times when the market has sold off sharply for a considerable period, yields are comparatively high and price-earnings ratios are low. This is a good time for the smart long-term investor to shop around.

He can use it as an opportunity to get out in front of the pack, where the best pickings are, rather than to wait and share the pickings with the pack. So far, the market has always rebounded to the benefit of those who moved in while it was low.

Contrariwise, when the pack is bullish, when there is talk of America's great population growth and the government's ability and determination to prevent any economic setback, when a blind faith in the upward spiral has given the market a sort of year-round Christmas tree glow, that's when the intelligent investor begins to check the exits.

Let's look at some history. The great boom of the 1920s began, you may remember, when investors, captivated by cool Cal Coolidge's prosperity, flocked to the market to buy their share of it. Speculation became heavy and, with market credit easy, frenzied.

The fever spread despite bad business, obviously overinflated credit, belated Federal Reserve Board attempts to apply the brakes and other bearish factors. Nobody seemed to be paying the slightest attention to the two appraisal tools: yield and price-earnings ratio. Individual stocks doubled, trebled and then increased 10 or 20 or 100 times — to preposterous levels.

This was the situation in mid-August 1929:

Du Pont, selling at 187, was yielding slightly over 2 per cent and had a price-earnings ratio of almost 27 to 1. Standard Oil of New Jersey at 63 was yielding 1½ per cent and showed a price-earnings ratio of about 13 to 1. General Electric at 392 was yielding just 1 per cent and had a price-earnings ratio of almost 44 to 1. Sears, Roebuck at 160½ was yielding only 1½ per cent and had a price-earnings ratio of 24 to 1.

The boom went on another two months; the wise investor had ample time to read the signs and liquidate at enormous profits. A few did so. But the vast majority ran with the money-maddened pack and participated in the mass disaster that followed.

A contrasting story can be read in the figures for the early 1930s, when the country was trying to struggle out of the ruins. As the depression deepened, stock prices went down, down, down. There was a frantic rush for liquidity—to get dollars and hold them. Stocks dropped to the point where they were selling in many cases for no more than two or three times earnings. The individualists began to show interest.

Even before the New Deal started to help the economy back to its feet, the indicators disclosed to all who cared to consult them that those with dollars on hand (the ranks of such people had been sadly depleted, of course) could get some handsome bargains.

One of the golden opportunities was in the utilities field. The collapse of the Insull empire and other utilities combines, followed by the government's threat to break them up permanently, obscured the basic underlying values of the companies. The famous British economist, John Maynard Keynes, made a fortune buying electric utilities stocks at their lows in the early 1930s. He saw that the basic value of the component companies was good, as evidenced by satisfactory yields and comparatively low price-earnings ratios. So he bought utility stocks and held onto them.

In the spring of 1942, the U.S. economy, helped by a mounting tide of war orders, was healthy and booming, despite wartime controls and restrictions. But the bad news from the fighting fronts induced investors to follow an old fallacy—that it's a good idea to hold onto cash if your country is losing a war.

The fact was, of course, that if the U.S. actually had lost the war the cash would have been worth less than the securities it might have bought. But the fallacy was widely accepted, and this, combined with the general pessimism in the country, kept the market enticingly low. Top-quality companies were yielding 8 and 10 per cent and selling at attractive price-earnings ratios. It was an ideal time for the investor to step in ahead of the pack. Almost any stock he picked would have doubled, tripled or quadrupled within a few years, paying high yields the while.

When Harry Truman surprised everybody — and profoundly shocked the business community—by defeating Thomas E. Dewey in the 1948 election, the market had been on a general rise for some time, but of late there had been some uneasiness. Investors were wondering whether the wartime shortages hadn't been taken care of and overproduction and unemployment were in prospect. They looked fearfully at the threat of foreign competition as war-wrecked foreign economies struggled back to their feet. The market was ripe for a drop, and Truman's victory pulled the trigger. Prices dropped.

Yet the spring of 1949—on the basis of price-earnings ratios and yields—was an ideal buying time for the man who was willing to take a different path than the scurrying pack. The best blue chip stocks were selling at bargain prices. Yields for top-quality stocks ranged as high as 9, 10, 12 per cent; price-earnings ratios were as low as 3-1.

There were other signs of strength that the individualists noted. Population growth was pushing demand upwards. Consumers had barely begun to satisfy their craving for new products, for new cars, homes, TV appliances. Industry was becoming adept at creating demand—even to the extent of causing artificial obsolescence. A long period of plant expansion was ahead.

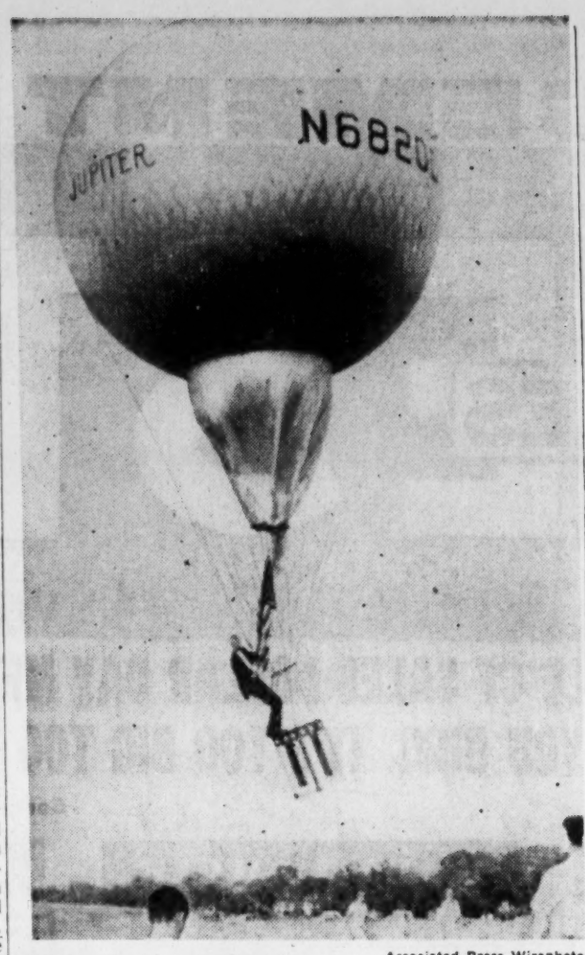

Finally, the Korean War, with its own little market boom in raw materials, aircraft and other items, added to the upward pressures. These were indeed lush times in the market—for the man who got in early.

Strangely, the Eisenhower victory in 1952 halted the market rise. This was partly because of the imminent end of the Korean War and its boom effects, and partly because of the tight money policy imposed by the administration soon after it took office. The market dropped, and by the fall of 1953 many stocks were again selling at high yields and low price-earnings ratios — and again bargains were available.

But the basic strength of industry and the rising consumer demand soon became evident to everyone, and the market started upward again. Many stocks reached and passed 1929 peaks. But again, as prices rose, yields dropped and price-earnings ratios became increasingly unattractive.

In the fall of 1957 the market broke again, and kept falling through the year. The individualists who had acted earlier on the basis of the yield and price-earnings warnings could congratulate themselves.

Budget Aid For Cities Promised

Lt. Gov. Garland Byrd said Monday the Senate Government Operations Committee is ready to go to work with a committee from the Georgia Municipal Assn. to find a way to help the state's towns and cities out of their financial plight.

One of the chief considerations of the two committees will be a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow the state to return part of its tax to the municipalities.

Byrd said he hasn't made up his mind on whether to support the amendment or not, and won't until he hears from the two committees.

ASKED FOR STUDY

He promised to ask the Government Operations Committee to look into the question, however, when he addressed the municipal association in Macon several weeks ago.

At the same time, Gov. Vandiver dropped a strong hint at the association that he would favor the amendment.

Byrd said Monday he appreciates and understands the plight of the cities financially and he is sure the two committees will work out some acceptable solutions to the problem.

ASSOCIATION ATTENDS

Cartersville Mayor Charles A. Cowan, president of the municipal association, and Elmer George, executive director, were in Byrd's office when he made the remarks at a news conference.

Cowan said he and George will serve as an ex-officio members of the association's committee. Others who will serve are Carl E. Pruett, Griffin, first vice president of the association; Mayor Millard A. Beckum, Augusta; Mayor Randolph Medlock, Stone Mountain; City Commissioner S. L. Hancock Sr., Rome, and City Manager Shell Hartley, Tifton.

Soviets Bar Conan Doyle Royalties

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet supreme court Monday rejected the appeal of an American lawyer seeking cash royalties for Russian publication of the Sherlock Holmes detective stories.

The court ruled it was elementary that the heirs of the late author, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, had no claim under Russian copyright law. It dismissed the claims for two million rubles ($500,000 at the official rate of exchange) as "unfounded."

The case was argued by Attorney Harold J. Berman before a three-judge panel of the Supreme Court of the Russian Republic—the highest legal body in the Soviet mother republic.

Berman, an expert on Soviet law at the Harvard Law School, was hired by executors of the Doyle estate. He argued for royalty payments on grounds Soviet publishers had "unjustly enriched" themselves at Doyle's expense.

Berman was making the first appearance of a Western lawyer before the supreme court of the Russian republic. He originally had submitted his claim to a Moscow city court last Nov. 15. The lower court ruled against him but gave him the right of appeal.

Missile Great but GI Is Greater, Medaris Says

Missiles are great, the Army's top missileman said in Atlanta Monday, but they'll never replace the foot soldier in winning wars.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commanding general of the Army Ordinance Missile Command at Hunstville, Ala., told the Atlanta Rotary Club "nothing can detract from the ultimate importance of the infantryman's role."

"To him, finally, we entrust the fate of our nation at those times when the battlefield means life or death to him," he said.

"Weapon in hand, feet firmly planted on ground wrested from an enemy, he is the symbol of victory."

But as a counter to current Soviet "rocket-rattling threats", he disclosed the Army is nearing the testing stage of an anti-missile missile—the Zeus.

Gen. Medaris, terming the Zeus "our most important undertaking in the near future", said its rocket motor already has been tested successfully.

He said the Army hopes to fire it against our own long-range ballistic missiles "in the near future."

Medaris also discussed plans to use the Army-developed Redstone missile to test the capsule designed to put a man into space and bring him back safely.

He said work is progressing at Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville on Project Saturn, "a true space transportation system."

This missile, developing 1,500,000 pounds of thrust, will put a 25-ton satellite into permanent orbit around the earth or place a ton of instruments on the moon, he said.

Among non-military benefits of a 25-ton satellite, he said, would be the use of three such vehicles equally spaced around the equator some 22,300 miles up to provide worldwide television, radio or teletype communications.

VALENTINO'S FEMININE LOOK IN WALK SHOE

His Shoes Say It In Italian Tones

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER
Constitution Fashion Editor

His English is shaky but his expressions in leather are making him understood in the universal language of fashion.

He is Mario Valentino and he is known in his native Italy as the "marvelous bottier." Now designing for the American shoe house of I. Miller, he is today presenting his first collection to Atlanta.

Explaining his feeling about shoes in a soft, low-pitched voice thick with an Italian flavor, he said, "I do not like to see two feet on the floor. The shoe must complement the costume. A good dress can be ruined by a bad shoe but a bad dress can be saved by a good shoe. Even the woman's—how do you say it—oh yes, leg (and he paused to pat the calf of his leg) looks bad in a bad shoe especially if it is a not good leg but this same not so good leg can be changed to beautiful in a good shoe. If you do not believe this, look at a woman from the back when she stands."

HE'S ONLY 30

Only 30 years old, Mr. Valentino has been designing women's shoes since the age of 14, having acquired his interest from a father who headed his own small custom shoe factory. He worked "like a shoemaker" with him and not only does he create designs but he can also make shoes by hand. His design training was received formally at the Institute of Belle Arti in Naples which he attended because he liked art in itself. Anything creative appeals to him and for this reason inspirations for his shoes can come from almost anywhere including a walk down the street or a sojourn among the ancient statues of Rome.

His shoes for this fall he describes as "much simplicity." Working chiefly in the suit and daytime type, he has achieved an elegance in the simplicity of a rather oval, flattened look with a more shallow upper and shorter vamp. His heels are generally of walking level either of stacked leather or covered.

"American women and Italian women generally want the same thing in shoes. There are more American women who can afford the beautiful shoe and the American women have the opportunity for better fit. In Italy there is usually one width in a size and the most popular size is 7. (Atlanta's most popular size according to one store's survey is 7½AA.)

FOURTH TRIP HERE

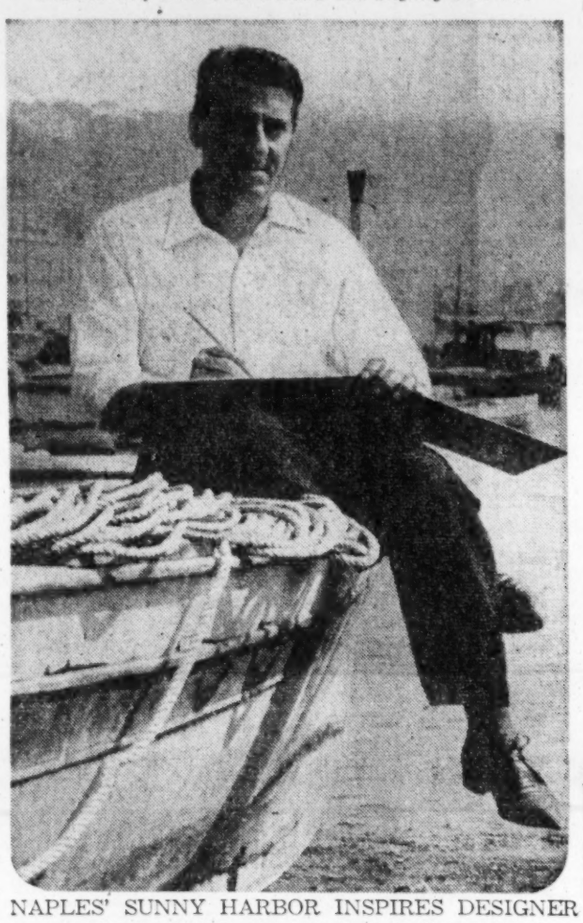

This is only Mr. Valentino's fourth trip to the United States. On previous trips he visited New York and Chicago and particularly remembers New York as the place "too beeg with many complications, many monies, and many microbes."

"New York gives me an infection in the nose and that is bad because mine is very beeg nose," he laughed with a definite sense of humor showing with the twinkle in his eye.

And rising to show that he is 5 feet 9 inches tall, he tilted his head back and teased that he is taller with his nose pointed up.

He fell in love with Atlanta during his ride from the airport to his motel because "Atlanta is so fresh with very nice air. I love de Sooth."

For shopping information on Mr. Valentino's shoes, call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

Chantilly House Party Dispels Usual Postnuptial Letdown

It was a spur-of-the-moment trip, but it was Southern hospitality at its best and most gracious.

"There is such a let-down after a wedding," said Mrs. William Conard, mother of Friday evening's bride, Wynn Conard, who became Mrs. Eric Henderson at one of the prettiest ceremonies of the season. "So my sister Mimi (Mrs. Frank Player) took all the bridesmaids and groomsmen, many of them from the East, up to Chantilly, our summer place on Lake Burton, for the weekend. There were 34 in the party."

Mrs. Player's son and daughter, Tony and Cora, and their cousin, Bruce Montgomery Jr., were prime instigators of the trip, but Mrs. Player was quite equal to the occasion, even though she had no advance notice.

"Chantilly has eight bedrooms and eight baths," she said, "and there are two enormous living rooms, so space was not a problem. We left on Saturday morning in 20 cars, and came back Sunday night.

"Of course we had to borrow skis and a few power boats so everyone could take to the water at once. Some of the boys had never been South before, and traveling in boats and partying around the lake was a novel experience for them."

On Saturday evening the house party attended the square dance at Mountain City—also a novelty for the New Yorkers and Philadelphians.

Mrs. Player did not even have the help of her husband in entertaining the group, for he had to leave for New York on Saturday.

THE EDWARD G. MERRITTS are back from a ten-day visit to Charleston. Mrs. Merritt's former home. They were guests there of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Will Middleton, and also of her aunt, Mrs. F. C. Ford, at her home on Sullivan's Island.

MR. AND MRS. C. T. POTTINGER JR., their son, Chip, and the twins, Joe and Austin, returned during the weekend from Jekyll Island where they spent last week.

WIVES OF MEMBERS of the Peace Officers Association of Georgia, here for the 59th annual convention at the Dinkler Plaza, will attend a coffee at 10 o'clock this morning at Rich's. At 1 o'clock they will attend the ladies' luncheon at the Dinkler Plaza, with the Hon. George D. Lawrence of Eatonton as speaker.

A tour of the city will follow luncheon. Mrs. H. L. Polk of Griffin is president of the ladies' auxiliary.

SAILING YESTERDAY for their ninth trip to Europe were Mr. and Mrs. Henri Sautier who are passengers on the Queen Mary.

"We are going primarily to see my husband's only brother and his wife, the Edmund Sautiers, in Switzerland," said Mrs. Sautier. "However, we will travel in Holland, France, Germany, Italy, and spend a few days in London before returning." The Sautiers plan to be away six weeks.

RETURNING TODAY from Mentone, Ala., where they spent the past two months at Lookout Mountain Camp are Clark Goodwin, Scott Tarplee Jr., Tommy Mauldin and Al Carter.

MRS. EVELYN McGAHEE COLEMAN is rejoicing over the arrival of two grandsons in as many days. They are her first grandchildren, incidentally. Making his debut on Aug. 11 was Frank B. Coleman IV, son of Lt. Frank B. Coleman III, USN, and Mrs. Coleman. And putting in an appearance on Aug. 13 was Harvey Lendon Stowe Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Stowe.

Mrs. Coleman is the former Gwendolyn Rae Mater of Newport News, Va. Her son was born in Macon where Lt. Coleman is stationed at the U.S. Navy Ordnance Plant. He will complete his Navy duty on Sept. 11, and he and his family will come to Atlanta to visit his mother on North Ivy road before going to New York for residence.

Mrs. Stowe is the former Nonnie Coleman. She and her son will return this week to their home in the Peachtree Hills Apartments.

Career Girl

Divorcee Is Wiser But Much Sadder

By JUNE WILSON

"Before I was divorced no personnel manager ever asked me to tell him about my marriage. But recently one asked me, not once, but THREE times, to 'tell him more' about my divorce!" That from a Career Girl.

"My first impulse was to reply that if you cannot be a sod widow it is better to be grass, but I didn't because it is not true."

One bad thing about being divorced is that you are wiser. And you cannot be wiser without being sadder. This is frustrating. A divorced woman learns that 'desirable' men are as scarce as flat-chested girls in a nudist colony. Desirable men have always been scarce, but when you're wiser, you're wiser. There aren't as many as you thought there were, and that was few enough!

Another disadvantage of the grass widow is that she has nobody to MOURN. One Career Girl tells it this way: HE: "Your husband isn't with you?" SHE (softly) "Not anymore." HE (shuffling, eyes downcast): "I'm sorry, I didn't know. Did he pass away recently?" SHE: "No, I'm divorced." HE (heels click, head up, eyes bright): "Ohhhh!"

See?

And another thing. When a divorced woman meets some men, before they have time to get acquainted they want to tell dirty jokes. It goes this way: "Now this isn't e-x-a-c-t-l-y what you could call a parlor joke, but after all, you HAVE been married." This is simple. Here is a small boy who is both fascinated and terrified of the word 'sex.' He never saw his mother or his sisters any way except fully dressed. Or, he is a mental dwarf. With no thoughts of his own, the only way he thinks to amuse is to quote. Without the brain for anything beyond the third grade, he repeats other people's smutty stories.

The working woman with all her marbles wonders why any man capable of shaving himself assumes that because one has resorted to the major surgery of divorce the sacred things are less sacred for acquaintance with them.

And, ah yes, there are The Women. A divorced woman is always eyed by the still-married with fear . . . IF . . . first, the married woman is none too secure in her marriage, and, second, if she is a jealous one. The insecure need something they can only attain within themselves. As for jealous women, do not fret or feel sinister because you are single again. Jealous women are just jealous women, and any one of them could be a dead ringer for Helen of Troy, and any other woman a cross between Medusa and Gravel Gertie and she would still be jealous.

Any mature and happily married woman is capable of a deep empathy with one who has not had the happiness which she possesses. To her it is sadness beyond measure for anyone of her own sex not to have known, even briefly, that mystical and elusive alchemy of spirit that is born of two people who truly belong to each other.

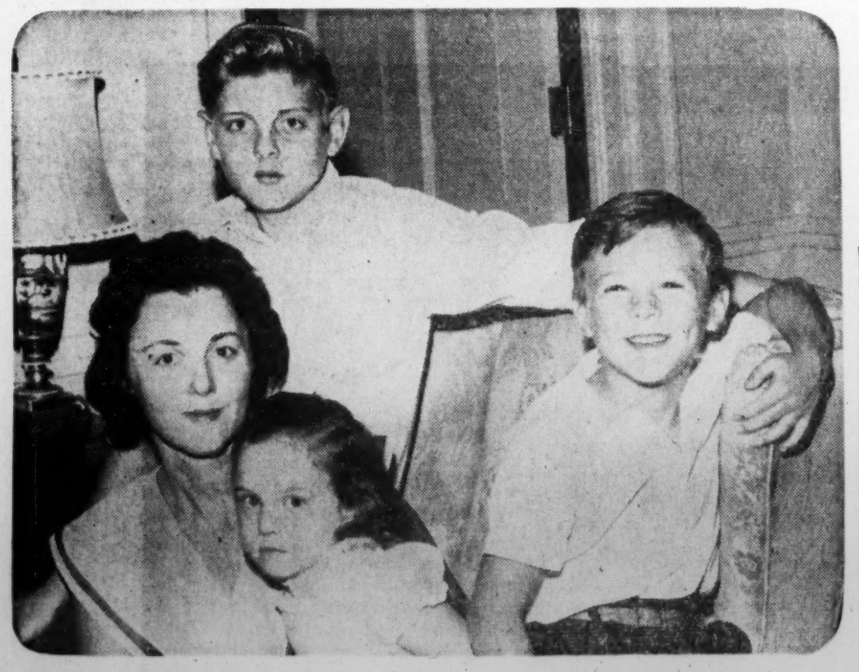

A businessman has this to say of the divorced woman: "A woman who has been through a divorce is more dependable, more responsible and less self-centered. She knows what she wants and has more spunk . . . and give ME a woman with spunk any day!"

Bright Bunny Bag Perfect For Sweet Young Things

Probably nothing interests the school and college crowd less than handbags. They consider them an extra nuisance and prefer instead the tiniest little clutches they can find.

But there's a bag this fall especially designed to tempt these young people—an adorable small pouch made of fluffy bunny fur dyed in red and other bright colors. It has a leather handle that is long enough so that the bag may be slung over the shoulder but short enough so that the bag rests beneath the arm—well out of the way. This "bright bunny" bag is a perfect present for our bright young things!

August Sun Will Do Wonders For Mattress

A good sudsing in the August sun will do wonders for your innerspring mattress.

During the fall and winter months, you can remove dirt and dust with frequent vacuuming. But, why not start out with a mattress that has been washed clean and smells fresh?

Move the mattress outside on the grass or on a picnic table. With a firm brush, scrub a small area at a time with warm soap or detergent suds. Use a sponge for rinsing each area with clear water. After rinsing, wipe the mattress as dry as you can. Overlap your strokes on the cotton ticking to prevent unsightly rings.

After you've completed one side, let it dry in the sun before turning it over and washing the other side.

NO "GOING STEADY" FOR BLUE DENIM STARS

17-Year-Old Star Played First Role to a 'Dummy'

By BETTY CARROLLTON

At 17, the baby-faced, blue-eyed blonde packs a wealth of experience in five mediums: modeling, radio, TV, the Broadway stage and now movies. As the result of her stage success on Broadway in "Blue Denim," Carol won a Hollywood contract, with a meaty role in "Holiday for Lovers" as her first film. (Co-starring Clifton Webb, Jane Wyman and Gary Crosby.)

PROJECTED VOICE

"I was used to projecting my voice on the stage," she recalled. "And of course, that isn't necessary when you're before the cameras with a mike just above your head."

But it took a little getting used to, and Carol found that she continues to "project."

"I was driving the sound man crazy," she said.

"There," he told Carol, "is your audience."

Carol called us to talk about her new movie, "Blue Denim," in which she portrays a teen-ager who becomes involved in pre-marital pregnancy, the same role she had on Broadway.

NO DELINQUENT

"Both the play and the film are mainly about the lack of communication between parents and their teen-age children," Carol explained. "The girl I play isn't a delinquent. In fact, the young couple involved are nice, respectable teen-agers. They're actually victims of their own innocence rather than their guilt."

There will be a special screening of "Blue Denim" at the Rhodes Theater Tuesday, Aug. 18 at 10 a.m. Clubwomen, clergymen, educators, civic leaders and teen-agers will be special guests.

Hitting the "lack of communition between teen-agers and parents," Carol, a level-headed young woman who likes to think for herself, observed that "if parents wait until their children are 16 years old before they try to talk to and understand them, they've waited just 15 years too late."

"Talking to your parents, trusting and confiding in them," she continued, "should be as much a natural part of growing up as anything else."

CLOSE TO FAMILY

The versatile actress declared she has always been close to her family, found her parents easy to talk to. And although she made her professional debut when she was 10, was an established star at 15, Carol feels she's "a perfectly normal teen-ager."

"I like the things most other 17-year-old girls like," she insisted. "I enjoy dancing, movies, music (but a little rock 'n' roll goes a long way), and actually, most teen-agers have a job of some sort.

("Oh, excuse me a minute," Carol interrupted her own comments. I think my steak's burning!)

When she returned to the phone, the pretty blonde explained that she enjoys cooking her own meals, doesn't go in for fancy dishes. ("I've got a steak in the broiler now," she explained. "It's well done, but that's the way I like it."

NO ROMANCE

Summer Wane Made Me Realize That Time Was Flapping By

It must be summer's wane that made me conscious of time flapping overhead like a long-legged bird—clumsy and slow when measured by the jet's speed but still too swift for me. The piled up, put off, unfinished tasks reproached me and I didn't feel much better to find somewhere in each stack a do-it-now note to myself.

A handwriting expert probably would have only to glance at the draggy tails on the final items on the lists to know that my resolve was already dissolving into day dreams, that I had already forgotten the chores I put at the top of the list.

It's time, I said to excuse myself. I just haven't time for anything.

And then to avoid having to come to terms with these lists I rushed off to the library, ostensibly on a research project but really just to hide myself in the bookstacks and feed at random on any book that caught my eye.

"How to Live on 24 Hours a Day"!

Now this is not a new book. In fact, Arnold Bennett wrote it in 1910. It has been reissued in a bright new jacket full of those impertinent little teasers such as: "How can you avoid wasting time? What's the best way to control your mind? How can you balance your life? What's a successful program for the day?"

I wouldn't be caught dead reading such a thing, I said firmly. There are no easy ways, no magic recipes, for accomplishment. You simply have to slog along, doing the best you can. Besides, it's a matter of time.

Still I opened the book and right away one of the chapter headings, "The Desire to Exceed One's Programme" enticed me with its Britishness. Getting ahead in the world doesn't sound half so nice as "exceeding one's programme."

I read a little bit. The book, it said, was addressed to "that innumerable band of souls who are haunted, more or less painfully, by the feeling that the years slip by, and slip by and slip by and that they have not yet been able to get their lives into proper working order."

That's me, Arnold, I murmured and checked the book out. (With difficulty, I admit, because of those other books I hadn't returned. They were on the draggy-tailed do-it-now list.)

Mr. Bennett is no Dale Carnegie flailing you on to success but a wry sage with a sense of humor that takes into account human frailty and human diversity. Maybe you don't like Success. Maybe you want to read "Paradise Lost" or study the French revolution or collect street cries or catch butterflies. You need more time for it and he certainly does tell you how to get time.

Get up earlier, he says in substance. Stay up later. Use the time spent going to and from work to improve your powers of concentration. (He gives you an exercise for this.) He figures you can winnow six hours after work if you won't allow yourself to accept yours and your wife's diagnosis that you are pale and tired and need to sit around doing nothing for half an evening. But even, admitting that you are tired and want to use time for friends, bridge, tennis, domestic scenes, odd reading, pipes, gardening, pottering, and prize competitions," you can still salvage three hours for a project of your choice. And then, says Mr. Bennett, you have "the terrific wealth" of 44 hours on the weekend, saying your weekend starts, 1910 style, at 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Oh, I was a sold goose by the time I finished that little book. (I read it on the way home on the bus.) I could hardly wait to get up at 4:30 a.m. the next day. And I did accomplish wonders, if I do say it.

But I've been so tired since I've had to leave the office early and hurry home to fall in bed by 7 p.m. This takes courage because Mr. Bennett plainly says that nine out of ten people "would have better health and more fun out of life if they spent less time in bed." "Most people," he quotes a doctor, "sleep themselves stupid."

I'm sure that's true and I'm going to try again . . . as soon as I finish my nap.

A Gurgling Tradition!

DEAR GEORGE:

After reading your articles I am sure you are the only one who can help us. I have a most embarrassing problem. Every time I'm alone with my boy friend at a real romantic moment, my stomach gurgles. This also happens to my girl friend and is terribly disconcerting. Please help us. Thank you.

—LADIES IN DISTRESS.

DEAR LADIES IN DISTRESS:

You are worrying unduly. Stomach gurgling has a grand and glorious tradition. Great advances have been made in bringing the once hush-hush problem of stomach gurgling out into the open. A research center has been set up at Harvard, Ga., and much of the misplaced stigma and superstition surrounding stomach gurgling has been removed. We have come a long way since the days when "polite society" felt it necessary to drown out, by loud talk or other din, the ancient and honorable gurgle. One noted Washington hostess would whip out a Jews Harp and play Kilmer's "Trees." However, gurgling goes back to antiquity: The ancient Druids, for instance, considered it a portent of plentiful crops. They would drop everything and hold festivals and everybody would get looped to the gills. I swear, those Druids. Anyhow, many historical figures were outstanding gurglers, i.e., Napoleon, which is why he was always standing around like that. And Cleopatra, gurgling down the Nile. So don't be embarrassed. Be proud. Next time your stomach gurgles, look up at your boy friend and say softly, "I am a part of living history; heiress to a grand tradition, Daddio."

Convict Knifes Worker to Death

The victim was W. T. Winslette, 64, of Albany, who was working under contract to build a superintendent's residence at the nursery. Sheriff's deputies named the slayer as James Roy McCullough, 50, known in Atlanta as the "Candy Kid." McCullough was serving sentences of 25-40 years for armed robbery.

He was sent to prison in 1947 from Fulton County and had been working around the nursery for two years as a trusty.

Deputy Sheriff James L. Faircloth said that McCullough admitted drinking paint thinner during the morning Monday, and said that McCullough contended Winslette was killed in a struggle over a knife.

The deputy said McCullough told him he offered to sell Winslette a butcher knife and that Winslette tried to take the knife away from the prisoner.

Dr. Jackh, Statesman, Dies at 84

At the time of his death, he was consultant to the director of the Near and Middle East Institute, which he helped to found at Columbia University.

Born in Urach, Germany, on Feb. 22, 1875, Dr. Jackh was educated at the Universities of Breslau, Geneva, Munich and Heidelberg.

As an emissary of the German Foreign Office in 1912, Dr. Jackh was credited with beginning a movement which eventually brought Turkey into the Western community of nations.

While living in Berlin from 1912 to 1933, he founded the League of Nations Union. He served as a member of the delegations to Versailles, Locarno and Geneva after the World War I.

Los Angeles Bows, Keeps Democrats

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Los Angeles managed to keep the 1960 Democratic National Convention Monday by forming a new host committee that accepted ticket limitations set down by National Chairman Paul Butler.

"I am confident that the new group announced today, aided and supplemented by others, will discharge fully and promptly the financial and facilities obligations of Los Angeles made to the national committee," Butler said.

"We allocated 1500 tickets to the host committee," Butler said, "for each session to be used in providing spectator seats for people in Los Angeles who have assisted in bringing the convention here."

Butler flew here last Thursday, setting Monday as the last day for Los Angeles to accept the national committee's ticket allocation or lose the convention scheduled next summer.

Adm. Halsey To Be Laid to Rest Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey will be buried Thursday at Arlington National Cemetery, final resting place for the nation's heroes.

The body will lie in state in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral from noon Wednesday until noon Thursday, with final funeral services conducted at Arlington.

Crowds at Jekyll

Parking lots and picnic tables on Jekyll Island were in capacity use Sunday for the seventh weekend in a row. Authorities said room must be found for more next season, the way things are going.

The vast parking lots and seemingly endless supply of picnic tables were subjects of jokes when the facilities were first installed.

The average summer Sunday now is drawing about 2,200 carloads of bathers and picnickers to the island, in addition to those from the nearly 600 accommodation units on Jekyll. Saturday crowds are almost as big.

Wage Hearing Slated

U.S. District Judge Frank M. Scarlett on Sept. 17 will hear a case which will determine whether seafood plants must start paying federal minimum and overtime wages.

The date was agreed upon Monday by lawyers representing Sec. of Labor James Mitchell and the Trade Winds Co. of Savannah, and SeaPak Corp., of St. Simons Island.

Trade Winds in June filed suit asking a declaratory judgment which would prevent the enforcement of a wage-hour administration decree issued in February putting seafood plants under the wage-hour law.

More Judges Needed, Fulton Told

Fulton County's rapid development soon may require 15 to 20 superior court judges to handle its legal business, the county's commissioners were told Monday.

Estimates on the increase in the number of judges came from judges and lawyers arguing for plans to convert the present courthouse into an exclusive Superior Court building.

The spokesmen, all members of a courthouse remodeling committee, also were arguing in favor of a proposal to provide jury dormitory room for overnight sleeping in the remodeling.

Atty. William Shroeder estimated there may be a request to increase the present staff of nine judges by two within the next two years.

Committee Chairman A. C. (Pete) Latimer said the number of Superior Court judges may increase to as many as 15 "within the next 10 years."

They offered these arguments in support of remodeling plans on which they have been working for nine years, which provide 16 courtrooms, the dormitory quarters, a lawyers' assembly room and a jurors' assembly room.

Before the committee began presenting the plans, drawn by the architectural firm of A. Thomas Bradbury, County Commission Chairman James H. Aldredge declared, "We are of the unanimous opinion that we object to the dormitories."

Aldredge also specifically objected to the idea of moving all other county functions out of the building.

Noting that the five Civil Court judges and two Criminal Court judges are moving into the new Civil-Criminal Court building, Aldredge said he felt there should be space left in the present courthouse for everybody.

Latimer, in presenting the proposal, said it would cost $1,940,000 to complete remodeling of the 45-year-old courthouse and that did not provide for air conditioning the administration building as contemplated in the 1957 bond issue.

Engineers estimate it will take $350,000 to air condition the administration building, bringing the total of the two projects to $2.3 million.

Latimer and Judge Ralph H. Pharr raised objections to the use from a special courthouse remodeling fund of $100,000 on the new juvenile court building and $100,000 on the new home for the aged.

And Judge Pharr said he did not think it fair that the cost of the air conditioning had to come out of the $1,897,000 in funds available for the courthouse job, which is the last of the county's bond projects to be let to contract.

New Business Taxes To Raise Firemen's Pay

Atlanta firemen will receive "at least two" salary increments from the additional city funds brought in by a proposed increase in business license fees, Ald. William T. (Bill) Knight said Monday night.

The aldermanic firemasters board was told the increments likely would range from $18-to-$20 per step. Current salary range for city firemen is $300-to-$370 per month.

Fire Chief Waits Guthrie told the board that 327 buildings were inspected and 42 fire hazard notices issued during a two-week period that launched the fire department's new building-to-building inspection program.

"It may take about a year," he said, "but rest assured that you will see a reduction in our fire losses" as the result of the program.

Architect Kenneth Johnson's plans for relocating Station No. 4 (from Pryor street to 125 Ellis St., NE) were approved by the panel and will be advertised for bids. It will cost an estimated $110,000 to relocate No. 4 in the Butler street urban renewal project.

"I'm back on schedule now"

There's a safe, pleasant way to correct irregularity due to lack of bulk. E. G. Bagwell, Wilmington, N. C., writes: "I have just discovered Kellogg's All-Bran for keeping regular. Now I'm back on schedule with no more constipation."

Laxative drugs don't supply the bulk needed to correct a common cause of constipation. Kellogg's All-Bran works for millions because it supplies this bulk. A half-cup daily gives you all the good food bulk essential for dependable, natural regularity.

Try Kellogg's All-Bran for 10 days—see if it doesn't work for you, too.

A Rainy Day

CHICAGO—Manager Bill Rigney, who started and finished the game in a shower, was standing in the San Francisco dugout Sunday afternoon looking at the drizzling rain and talking about the torrid National League pennant fight.

When the afternoon was over the rambunctious Cubs had claimed their third victory in four games with the Giants, and Rigney was hotter than the race.

Outlar

He had been exiled to the clubhouse by umpire Hal Dixon after lodging a vociferous protest when Willie Mays was picked off first in the ninth inning.

But this was before the game and Rigney was in a pleasant mood. "If we can just get home off this 19-game trip still alive, we'll be in good shape," he said. "We've got an 18-game home stand coming up. But anything can happen from here on out.

"Sure, this team has surprised me," Rigney replied in answer to a question about the success of the Giants. "Last March I didn't have any reason to figure we'd be in first place in August. Those trades helped us. Sam Jones and Jack Sanford have meant a lot to our pitching staff.

"Willie McCovey has hit over .400 since we called him up from Phoenix," Rigney continued. "He's given us a lift. Did you see the ball he hit into the center-field seats Friday?"

He was referring to the mammoth McCovey's 430-foot shot.

The canvas was still down and the rain and the dugout conversation continued. Willie Mays walked out of the tunnel and a man inquired whether he thought the Giants would dedicate Candlestick Stadium with a World Series. Mays indicated by his answer that the Giants will be ready even if the stadium isn't.

"I don't care where we play it," he said. "It would be nice to play in the new stadium, but the main thing is to play it. We'll play in Central Park."

—The Cubs Aren't Awed by the Giants

There was no mention of the bean ball incident in the Giant dugout, but across the way the Cubs were unhappy about it.

Sanford had drilled Ernie Banks in the back in Saturday's game, and the slugging shortstop had leveled a charge that he was deliberately dusted.

Jack Sanford

Ernie Banks

Circumstantial evidence was against Sanford, for he has hit Banks three times this season. Manager Bob Scheffing explained that Banks hit two homers off Sanford in the opening game in San Francisco, and the pitcher has been hitting Banks since.

Chicago authors were anxious to know whether Banks would play. And after checking with his physician in the clubhouse, Banks revealed that he would be in the line-up for his 458th consecutive game. Scheffing already had written Bank's name on the card. Sammy Taylor, the ex-Cracker, was chatting with Glen Hobbie, a former Memphis Chick. Rivals in the Southern Association, they're now teammates in Chicago.

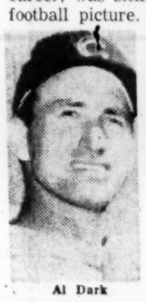

Taylor, victim of a series of injuries, had his left wrist taped and disclosed that a Hobbie pitch had clipped it. Asked to render opinions on the ultimate pennant winner in the N. L., Taylor cast a vote for Milwaukee. Hobbie leaned toward Los Angeles. Neither player seemed awed by the Giants.

Perhaps it's because the Giants don't seem to cause the Cubs much trouble of late. Conversation drifted around to the phenomenal hitting of McCovey, who entered the game with a .423 average. He had punctured Hobbie for three hits in the Giants' losing effort Friday.

"Two of those were handle hits," Hobbie said, "and he hit that long home run on a good pitch. I'll throw him the same thing next time, and he won't hit it. Don't get me wrong; the Giants have plenty of power, but McCovey is hitting over his head."

—Banks Gets Revenge For the Bean Ball

Al Dark

Bill Rigney

The rain eventually subsided, but the Cubs didn't. Mays stroked No. 21 into the right-field seats with one on in the first, but Banks got the Cubs even with No. 36 in the home half. Banks, riled at the Giants in general, later labeled the homer as the most satisfying time at bat in his career.

Though it appeared that the pitch merely got away from Johnny Antonelli, Banks was knocked down again in the fourth, the inning in which the Giants were knocked out. Banks eventually walked and Lee Walls followed with a three-run homer.

Thus the Giants, afforded a possible opportunity to cinch the pennant, dropped three of four to the upstart Cubs. Scheffing's surprising men floored Los Angeles twice before Frisco arrived. Despite the three damaging setbacks, the Giants lost only a half length to Los Angeles and headed for Cincinnati with a two-and-a-half game edge.

But it's easy to understand why Bill Rigney, a nervous man, is seldom still for more than a few seconds these days. Every pitch is labeled pennant, and there's always guys like Banks trying to knock the cover off the ball.

Frick Sets New Loop Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — The long awaited—and perhaps historic — meeting between baseball's top brass and the supporters of a projected third major circuit to be called the Continental League takes place here Tuesday.

Major league baseball would like to find out how the would-be organizers plan to go about setting up a third league. The organizers, in turn, want to be informed about player personnel, territorial rights, pensions and available cities to be added to the five they already have.

The majors will be represented by a committee of seven, headed by Commissioner Ford Frick. The others will include the two major league presidents, Warren Giles and Joe Cronin; and club owners Lou Perini, Bob Carpenter, Tom Yawkey and Arnold Johnson.

Representing the newcomers will be William A. Shea, the leader in the formation of this still unborn Continental League, and backers of the five clubs he has announced as possessors of franchises. The cities include Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York, Houston, Toronto and Denver.

There has been some misconception regarding this meeting which, actually, will be no more than an informal conference.

Even if Frick's committee gives Shea and company its blessings, it has no power to approve anything as a finality. It will merely listen, make suggestions, and canvass every point of advantage and disadvantage in the proposed third major league.

McDaniel Stifles Phillies

Rally-Stopper Saves Mizell

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Lindy McDaniel came on in the ninth inning to quell a four-run Philadelphia rally and preserve a 5-4 St. Louis victory Monday night.

The Phillies had bunched four hits in the final frame, scoring all their runs and chasing Vinegar Bend Mizell from the mound. But McDaniel, coming on with none out, put out the fire.

St. Louis collected 10 hits, five of them doubles, scattering them through every inning but the seventh and the ninth.

SPLISH . . . SPLASH— WHEELING, W.Va.—There are times when an oft-quoted phrase such as "boys will be boys" just isn't enough to describe the antics of some boys. A heavy shower flooded the Wheeling Island Pony League field, so the boys became mudders of the highest degree.

Podres Earns Dodger Split

Los Angeles Wins 4-3 Finale After Braves Take 8-1 Game

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers combined effective relief pitching by southpaw Johnny Podres and a seventh inning homer by light-hitting Don Zimmer for a 4-3 victory and a split of a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Braves Monday night.

Milwaukee won the opener 8-1 with long ball hitting and the hurling of Dodger master Bob Buhl. The nightcap victory for the Dodgers left them in second place in the National League and Milwaukee in the No. 3 spot.

The Dodgers' are three games behind league-leading San Francisco and the Braves four down.

Podres allowed only four hits after coming on in the fifth to pick up his 10th victory against seven losses. He struck out six Milwaukee batters in proving the only effective Los Angeles hurler.

Coles' Long Home Run Wins No. 3 for Big Right-Hander

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS—Huge Jerry Nelson, winner of only one game in two leagues over a four-month span, handcuffed the New Orleans for the second time in five days as the Crackers gouged out a series-opening, 8-2 triumph Monday night.

The big righthander, going the route for the third time in his last five starts, scattered seven singles — three of them of the infield variety —as the Crackers stunned their new found "cousins" for the sixth consecutive time.

Chuck Coles

Nelson, 9-4 at Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League and beaten in his first three starts for Atlanta, improved his Southern Association chart to 3-5 in thrashing his new whipping boys.

Nelson celebrated the occasion by lashing a 400-foot double, the last of 10 Cracker blows, to bat in the final run in the seventh inning.

The Pelicans, who won 41 of 55 previous games at City Park Stadium, found "Home Sweet Home" less sweeter than usual as Atlanta's usually silent long-range artillery cut loose on starter Bert Thiel and Dick Drilling, first of three reliefers employed, for four savage extra base blows.

Mightiest of these was Chuck Coles' 400-foot two-run home run into the right centerfield stands in the fifth inning. That sock by Coles, who had crashed a double to help promote a three-run fourth, rifled the Crackers into a commanding, 6-2, advantage.

The belt dispatched Thiel, 9-8 after losing his last two decisions to the Crackers, to the point of no return before Drilling took over in the sixth.

Big smash of the three-run Cracker fourth that overcame a 2-1 deficit was a two-run double by Hawk Taylor, who later contributed a single.

Jack Roberts (1-4) and Ray Rippelmeyer (10-10) will hurl for the Crackers against Don Kildoo (6-8) and Charlie Ready (5-5) in the first of two straight doubleheaders Tuesday night starting time is 7:30 (Atlanta time).

Foytack Zeroes In Sights To Wing Bell and Tribe, 5-4

Indians Drop From Loop Pace

DETROIT (AP)—Paul Foytack, bombed for five runs in less than one inning by Cleveland batters Sunday, beat the Indians Monday, 5-4, after overcoming another shaky start.

Foytack yielded three runs in the second inning Monday and gave the Indians only four base hits the rest of the way in registering his 11th triumph against 10 defeats.

The Indians ripped him for three runs in the second, Rocky Colavito starting things with his 35th home run. Three singles and an error by first baseman Harris produced two more runs.

Maxwell got one of them back with his 26th home run leading off the second. Detroit scored three more off starter Gary Bell in the fifth. A walk, a double by Rocky Bridges and singles by Eddie Yost and Harvey Kuenn gave Detroit the lead.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Willie McCovey, San Francisco's rookie flash, hit a pinch single to drive in the winning run as the league-leading Giants defeated Cincinnati 6-3 Monday night.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

From Press Dispatches

The New York State Athletic Commission Monday suspended the matchmaker's license of Bill Rosensohn and the promoter's license of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., for an unexplained violation of commission rules.

Bill Rosensohn

The violations occurred, the commission said, in the promotion of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium last June 26. The commission, which has been probing the baffling background of the show, did not say what rules had been broken.

In addition to the commission, District Attorney Frank Hogan and a continuing New York grand jury has been prying into promotional affairs of the fight.

Rosensohn, vacationing in Cannes, France, said he welcomed the action. "I sort of expected it and I welcome it," he said. "Now the commission will have a chance to find out what's been going on."

But Vincent J. Velella, president and majority stockholder of Rosensohn Enterprises, said he was requesting an immediate public hearing "with a view to lifting the suspension" of the promoter's license of the corporation. Velella, who had split with Rosensohn, said, "I certainly do not quarrel" with the commission's action in suspending Rosensohn.

MORE BOXING: Champion Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer, who clash Aug. 28 in a middleweight title bout at San Francisco, worked out for an hour on Monday but neither struck a blow. . . . Roy Harris' manager, Lou Viscusi, and others have offered heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson a $500,000 purse for a title fight with Harris in Dallas' Cotton Bowl.

TENNIS: Atlantans gained an even break in the National Doubles tournament at Brookline, Mass. Crawford Henry and partner Donald Dell beat Robert Stewart (Wellesley Hills, Mass.) and Seymour Hunter (Melrose, Mass.) 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, and Ned Neely and partner Alan Roberts of Brooklyn lost as expected to top-seeded Australians Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. . . . Alex Olmedo and Earl Buchholz Jr., picked as likely Davis combo for U.S., breezed by Don Kierbow (Los Angeles) and Iyo Piemental (Venezuela), 7-5, 8-6, 6-4. . . . Third domestic seeds Tut Bartzen and Ron Holmberg were upset by national junior champions Charlie McKinley and Martin Reissen, 6-2, 8-6, 12-10.

MISCELLANY: Congress was asked Monday to exempt professional football, basketball and hockey from the antitrust laws by Sens. Estes Kefauver, Everett Dirksen and Thomas C. Hennings Jr. . . . Courageous Red Schoendienst, battling back from a bout with tuberculosis, rejoined the Milwaukee Braves Monday—but only for a workout.

REBS START 10 SENIORS

By PAUL ATKINSON

Brown High School literally will have "seniority" on 3-AAA West.

"We'll start 10 seniors," said Coach Jack Peek Monday night as he checked over his roster. "The question mark with us is how our deep backs, halfbacks Joel Milligan and Bobby Rowden and fullback Mike Morgan, will come through.

Eddie Jordan

"Elsewhere, we're solid, I believe. At end, there's 6-4, 215-pound Mickey Babb, potentially the finest athlete ever at Brown. He's big, can catch passes and has all the equipment to be sensational.

Peek listed Babb and Harold Ogles (165) at the ends; Terry Scott (205) and Porter Ragsdale (220) at tackles; Wayne Harper (180) and Jerry Maddox (160) at guards; Bobby Mims (175) at center, with Jordan, Milligan (160), Rowden (150) and Jr. Morgan (160) in the backfield.

The line will be big, no doubt about it. Scott's 6-0, 205, and just coming into his own. Ditto Ragsdale, 6-5, 220. Add Babb and everything's on the large size.

Mims has been shifted from guard to center and will be backed at the pivot by Butch Shiver (160). Harper is a letterman at guard, and either senior Maddox or Jimmy Martin (155) will team with him at the interior posts.

Milligan, now stationed at halfback, alternated with Rhett Word at fullback last season, a highly successful 7-4 campaign that included the 3-AAA West title but a 27-7 loss to North Fulton in the Milk Bowl. "Milligan will give us speed at halfback," explained Peek. "And Rowden, who was a guard last year, gives us a good line plunger at the other halfback.

"Morgan is up from the B team, so we don't know what he'll do under game conditions. He'll have help from Buddy King (165), who'll also see duty at quarterback behind Jordan.

On his plans, Peek foresees the Rebs running from the straight-T much of the time. "We'll pass a good deal," he said, "because Babb and Ogles are good pass catchers, and Jordan is a fine thrower."

Speak Up!

By George Cunningham

DEAR SPEAK UP: Why don't we at least have exhibition pro football games in Atlanta? Seems to me like the pros are passing up a good opportunity to rake in some loot, for Atlanta is a football city. Disgruntled, Atlanta.

DEAR DISGRUNTLED: No place to play. Grant Field belongs to Georgia Tech, and professionalism is frowned upon in that precinct.

DEAR SPEAK UP: How come the Atlanta Crackers continue to play at home on Sundays? Thousands of us don't get to see a big league game on television just so a few hundred can watch a local game in person. T. V. Fann, Atlanta.

DEAR T. V.: How come the Crackers continue to play?

DEAR SPEAK UP: Why don't they play the (prep) All-Star basketball game the night before the football game rather than the afternoon before. There are a lot of fans who would like to see it that can't attend in the afternoon. Puzzled, Atlanta.

DEAR PUZZLED: I'm puzzled too. Let's hope Sam Burke (GHSA boss) does something about it.

REPORT FROM PITTSBURGH

ORR, BROWN--'ME AND MY SHADOW?'

By EARL SIMPKINS

If Georgia football coach Wally Butts should walk into the Pittsburgh Steelers' training camp at California, Pa., he would feel right at home with such familiar faces as Riley Gunnels, R. K. Brown and last year's National Football League rookie-of-the-year, Jimmy Orr, around.

Jimmy Orr

And in a telephone interview Monday night Orr gave the two rookies a real good chance of sticking it out in the NFL. "Riley has been playing defense, and the defense and offense are pretty much separated up here. So, I haven't seen too much of him. But R. K. has an excellent chance.

"He has had a pulled muscle and has missed about 10 days. But he is about ready to go again now and should play a lot against the Chicago Cardinals Saturday night in Austin, Tex."

Thus far, Brown has been running either at the flanker or behind Orr at one end when both are in the game. "And I imagine it will be that way all year," Orr said. "He probably will be used a lot at both positions. He's a very good pass receiver."

Asked about his own chances of repeating last year's performance when he caught 33 passes for 910 yards and led the league with a 27.6 yards per pass average, he grinned, "It's going to have to be different from the way it was against Cleveland in our first exhibition game.

"They put one man on me short and one on me long, and I had to catch the passes in between them. But I still got four passes good for 78 yards.

"Of course, Bobby Layne makes it easier on both R. K. and me. He's a great passer, but he has something else which you won't find in any statistics book. He's the greatest leader I have ever seen.

"When I was with Los Angeles last year I got to play seven minutes in six exhibition games. Then when I got traded the Steelers didn't have anyone and had to play me. But they were just a bunch of ballplayers then. Then Layne came along and molded us into a team."

And the Steelers' chances for this year? "We're going to be tough. We're well rounded enough that our running can pick up on days when the passing is off or the passing can pull us through if the running is off.

"We'll give Cleveland and New York a battle in the Eastern Division. It's hard to go against the Rams in the Western Division, although Baltimore with Johnny Unitas will be tough again.

"But the Steelers are ready this time. Our problem last year was at fullback. Now we have four or five fullbacks who are ready to do a good job. I just hope that I'm ready, too, and can get open sometimes."

Le Baron's Seeking Good Year

QB Impresses Rams' Scouts

From Press Dispatches

Eddie Le Baron, playing his last year as quarterback for the Washington Redskins, looked good Monday as the team prepared for a Friday night exhibition game with the Los Angeles Rams.

Le Baron will take the California bar exam finals Sept. 8-10 and next year will be practicing in San Francisco or Washington.

Rams scouts were greatly impressed with Le Baron as he completed 11 of 11 passes against the San Francisco 49ers last Saturday night. Rams defensive backfield coach Jack Faulkner says it is going to be a tremendous job to stop Le Baron.

"The 49ers put a great rush on Le Baron," said Faulkner. "Big Bob St. Clair was breathing down Le Baron's neck on every pass try but still couldn't stop him. Just when you think you have that little fellow trapped behind the line he wriggles loose."

Bratkowski Named Bears' No. 1 QB

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) — Zeke Bratkowski Monday was named as the Chicago Bears starting quarterback against the Philadelphia Eagles in Lynn, Mass., Saturday night.

Bratkowski completed 10 out of 12 passes for 107 yards in the Bears' 19-16 victory over Green Bay last week. Ed Brown and Rudy Bukich each will play one quarter in the last half at quarterback in the exhibition with the Eagles.

Packers Put Five On Waiver List

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers, who lost to the Chicago Bears 19-16 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night, placed five men on waivers Monday. The cuts reduced the squad to 47.

Eagles Welcome All-Star Additions

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Head Coach Buck Shaw of the Philadelphia Eagles hopes two College All-Stars will be able to give his team some added punch.

The pair, halfback Willmer Fowler and tackle Nick Mumley, took their first drills as Eagles Monday. They arrived here Saturday after playing in the collegiate All-Star-Baltimore Colts game Friday in Chicago.

Shaw, who is sure the Eagles have plenty of power running, hopes Fowler will fill a need for a quick, fast back for the outside plays. Fowler is a former Big 10 sprint champion.

Cartersville, Jackson Win

Cartersville banged out 13 hits to beat Avondale, 10-6, and Jackson Loan followed Jimmy Nelson's eight strikeouts to a 16-3 win over Atlanta Paper Co.

Jackson Loan plays Norcross in the semis at Center Hill Tuesday at 8, and Cartersville meet Woodall Motors on the same card.

Know the Address Of IGABOSO Club?

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

Does anyone know the address of the I've-Got-A-Big-One-Staked-Out Club? I want to put in my application for membership. It's not as exclusive an organization as baseball's .400 Club, or the Hole-In-One society. The IGABOSO group even has a lot of eligibles who never have made application Talk to almost any fisherman long enough and he'll eventually confide that he knows the exact spot where a lunker hangs out. If he could just keep it on the end of his line long enough to get it in and weigh it, he's certain it would bust all the records in the book.

Charlie Elliott

In 40 years—take or give a few—of trying to figure out when, where, what and why large-mouths eat, I've seen only two bass I thought were larger than the present world record of 22¼ pounds. One was with Bobby Dodd, when we fished what is now known as Treasure Lake, in southern Cuba. The other was in a corner of Lake Apopka in middle Florida. Neither of these fish made any attempt to take a lure—both followed the plug almost to the boat, saw us and turned back into the cool depths.

I hope to see Treasure Lake again one of these days, if it is allowed to remain open. Fidel Castro liked it so well when he fished it with my tackle-peddling friend, Frank Carter, that he'll probably put a fence around it and use it as his private pond. But I hope to see that big bass in Apopka again before an alligator gets him.

My membership in IGABOSO concerns neither of these fish, but one I met up with in Sinclair a couple of weeks ago. Walter Griffin, who leaves his pill-rolling establishment in Jacksonville to go outdoors with me once in a while, was along. We left our wives on a windy, shady point to fix lunch and outboarded across the river to troll a flat. When we got back to the sandwiches, they told us excitedly about seeing a school of shad jump frantically in the little cove flanking our picnic spread, just before "something that looked like a crocodile" slashed through them.

They pointed out the spot and after they'd gone back to the dock, Walter and I decided to troll the length of the inlet a couple of times before we exhibited our wares in other parts of the lake. On the second trip through the cove, I hung my water dog in the top of an underwater snag, and if I know anything about bass, here is what happened:

The largemouth, lying at the base of the snag, saw the water dog swim up to his home and pause in one of the limbs. He cruised leisurely up to investigate, and as he neared the plug, I gave a hard jerk on the rod and tore the hooks out of the rotten snag. With so much tension on the line, my lure shot forward in a frantic movement, and the bass figured the waterdog had seen him and was trying to escape. An old lunker doesn't have to be hungry. He'll bite anything, even if he has to turn it loose. That bass hit my plug within three or four feet of the snag. When I felt him, I cut the motor, and he jumped four feet out of the water. Even Walter, who consorts with such critters as sailfish and tarpon, said, "WOW!"

He was heavy all right, and I kept the pressure on. When he jumped again, close to the boat, I could see that the water dog was stuck vertically in his mouth, between the upper and lower jaw. That's a long plug—exactly 5¾ inches (I measured it when I got home), but if I hadn't seen it in his open jaws, I'd still have known from the action of my trolling rod that he was unusually heavy.

He threw the plug on his second jump. I reeled the lure in and examined it. One of the hooks had been straightened, either by the bass or when I pulled it off the tree. Since it is more intriguing that way, I laid it to the bass.

So now I've got a big one staked out. I'll probably spend plenty of hours trying to get him on the hook again. If I happen to succeed, and he weighs under 12 pounds—you can bet your last barbless hook that no one will ever know it but me.

HOUSEBOAT MAKES FOR 'LAZY LIVING'

By JIM CARSON
Constitution Outdoor Writer

LAKE LANIER—A houseboat holiday may come closer to matching your idea of a perfect vacation than you ever dreamed.

A case in point is that of a young Atlanta couple, Mr. and Mrs. C. Errel Steele Jr.

"I never dreamed we'd be so comfortable, stay so busy, but have so much fun," Steele said as he docked the houseboat at Holiday on Lake Lanier marina.

Steele speaks with some authority on the comfort score, having spent 14 months aboard ship during a U.S. Navy hitch. But this is a day of ultra-modern houseboats — complete with foam rubber beds, electric refrigerator, gas stove, running water, toilet, and in some cases, air-conditioning.

"There are half a dozen things—call 'em hobbies if you like—that everybody wants to do but never gets around to at home," Steele said.

The reference here in the Steele's case is to their mutual interest and talents in water coloring. They found this scenic lake abounding in subjects.

Fishing, of course, gets top billing among many houseboat residents. Steele likes to fish, but seldom has the opportunity to get the full dose of angling he did with fishing waters right off the front porch.

Though August has been a non-productive month fish-wise here, Steele had plenty of time to "dunk baits." And he made the most of it.

Errel and Sara Jo both enjoy swimming. They found before breakfast dips as luxurious as a back yard pool, and a moonlight swim the same.

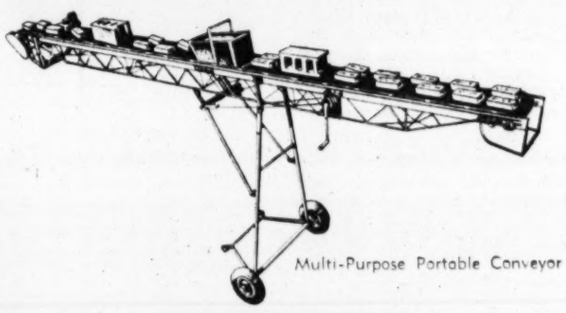

They took a wire grill and a bag of charcoal along, fashioned a firebox from rocks along the bank and cooked steaks and baked potatoes for a change from galley cooking.

John McIntosh

McIntosh, representing the South Atlantic Yacht Racing Assn., will enter his crew in the finals of the North American sailing championship event to be held at the Texas Corinthian Yach Club at Houston, Tex., Sept. 14.

The Savannah skipper was third at the halfway mark Saturday, but scored 12½ points for the four races to take a 2¼ point lead.

Second was Herbert (Chips) Virgin III of Miami, Fla., with 10¼ points; Gene Walet III of New Orleans, La., was third, tied with Albert Fay of Houston, Tex., both with 9¼ points.

McIntosh scored a third in the opening race, moved into second in the second; posted a first in the third and another second in the final. Eight finalists from the United States and Canada will compete in the finals at Houston.

MORE OUTDOORS: Raymond Meisenhalder, a native of Ft. Worth, Tex., and an Air Force pilot, was declared "King Spear Fisherman" of the 1959 International SCUBA Diving Tournament at Grand Isle, La. He beat out New Orleans' Mark Banjavich by four points. . . . A trailer is a sound investment for your boat's "comfort" while it's out of the water this winter. The trailer acts as a perfect boat cradle, providing equal support for all parts of the hull. Another benefit of storage at home on the trailer is that the boat is always available to be worked on at the owner's convenience.

Networks Giving Up TV Rating Systems

By PAUL JONES

They said it couldn't be done—but the networks apparently are going to solve the ratings dilemma by simply abandoning this system of comparing the batting averages of the various TV programs.

I am sure you are aware of the fact that the three networks have been trying for some time to rid themselves of this system of measuring the drawing power of a particular television show. But since both the public and sponsor had become accustomed to reading the Top 10 charts they could not find a way to minimize the impact of Trendex and Nielsen.

Jones

The broadcasters apparently have found a reason to abolish this system of nose-counting. Nielsen, a system which has been regarded as the most authoritative in the business, wants to raise the ante, boosting the charge for their service (for all three networks) to a tidy $650,000 a year.

I am amazed that the networks have laid out anything like that figure just to be told how many people are watching a particular TV show on a particular night. It occurs to me that the important thing to the sponsor is how much merchandise a particular program is able to move for him, not how many people might be watching his show.

I suppose that the ratings have had their purpose. If you were a president of a TV network it would be nice to know that four of your shows made the Top 10 list. If you were a star such as Perry Como it would be nice to know that an "estimated 40,000,000 people" were watching you on a given Saturday night.

But the ratings have had their evil influence on television, too. The evil far outweighs the good.

The ratings have given sponsors a false impression that the country wanted more and more Westerns. It has given sponsors the impression that quiz shows and panel shows were the big thing.

Ratings have created the impression that the Top 10 shows and only the Top 10 shows were desirable and in a mad scramble to get into this charmed circle sponsors have scuttled good shows which had substantial audiences.

* * *

THE NETWORKS created the ratings "monster" and I suppose us newspapermen throughout the country have helped to make him grow larger and more ominous.

I have tried to satisfy the reader's appetite for such information because we have become so accustomed to reading batting averages, parimutuel odds, baseball team standings and the all-important ratings of the top football teams in the nation, which, as you know, don't mean a thing because Team No. 15 can rise up and clobber Team No. 1 on a given Saturday afternoon.

Perry Como

Trendex and Nielsen have satisfied a desire on the part of the sponsor and the viewer who have wanted some TV batting averages.

I am wondering if it would not be better if we had a rating service which would measure the quality—rather than the quantity—of a given audience.

LETTERS

PEARL WHITE of Griffin writes: "What ever became of Jan Davis and Hallie Lokie who were featured on the Arthur Godfrey program. Are they still in showbusiness?"

I hear that Jan is giving her voice a much needed rest. Hallie, on the other hand, is pursuing her career although she doesn't make many TV appearances.

Annette and Ricky get their mail at ABC-TV, Hollywood, Calif. So does Pat Boone. I can't keep tab on Tab, but I think a letter addressed simply Hollywood will eventually reach him.

Scouting TV Tonight

Rodgers Revives Minstrel Tunes

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—For chronic nostalgia, try The Jimmie Rodgers Show tonight. The whole second half of the show will be a minstrelly medley of oldtime songs, with the banjo motif. All the guests, the singing chorus and the orchestra have learned how to plunk out a few basic banjo chords, and they'll all participate in this happy 15 minutes. The guests are Molly Bee, The Treniers, dancer Bobby Brandt and Harry Reser and His Banjo Quartet, who started the whole thing. Ch. 2—8:30-9 p.m.

8:30-9 (Ch. 5)—Leave it to To Tell the Truth to uncover human curios. Among the people tonight will be a man who brags about his meanness; in fact, he's rated in some quarters as the third meanest man there is. Working on this one will be the panel—Polly Bergen, Don Ameche, Monique Van Vooren and Tom Poston.

9:9-30 (Ch. 5)—You'll get to see a whole television series condensed into a half-hour pilot that failed on tonight's Geritol Adventure Showcase. This one stars Keith Andes as a handsome doctor in a city hospital (sound familiar?) confronted with some delicate surgery on an aging lady, and a gun in the hand of the lady's husband. Made by the big film producers, Screen Gems, this type of pilot will henceforth be tried out on their Alcoa-Goodyear Theater show, as a good way of interesting potential buyers. Hence, next summer's reruns will probably not include so many weak pilot films. This one, even though based on an actual case from a New York hospital, is dreary going.

9:30-10 (Ch. 11)—Naked City repeats one of its more gripping adventures tonight. James Franciscus, as Halloran, takes over a class in a tough school to discover the person or persons unknown who pushed the last teacher out the window. He almost ends up as the second fall guy, before the class is dismissed.

10-10:30 (Ch. 11)—As an example of mass hysteria, the Alcoa Presents item is probably their best rerun of the summer. An eerie, tranquilizing light over a World War I battlefield causes four French soldiers to lay down their arms. They land in the bastille, of course, and their subsequent court-martial is unsual, too. This is supposedly based on a true story. The viewers' problem is to figure out if they saw something—or just an hysterical hallucination.

10-11 (Ch. 5)—The Andy Williams Show promises its swingingest night of the summer with Eydie Gorme and Mel Torme (who really should have an act, with their rhyming names) joining Andy in a roll-call of great songs. Some of these are ones associated with the participants. The opener shows a ball of string rolling aimlessly across the floor to the feet of a man who bends over, picks it up and reveals himself as handy Andy. The ball is utilized to introduce the others, in a show which, opens, natch, with "I've Got the World on a String."

By VAL ADAMS

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Helen Hayes, Judith Anderson and Siobhan McKenna will star in the revival of "The Cradle Song." Miss Anderson and Miss McKenna will recreate the roles in which they first appeared in 1956 over the NBC network.

The play about a little girl who is reared in a convent and bids farewell to the nuns to become a wife will be offered as a feature of Hallmark Hall of Fame.

Miss Hayes had been scheduled to appear in Hallmark's original presentation but was forced to leave the cast because of the sudden illness of her husband, the late Charles MacArthur. She will portray the vicaress of the convent, the role she had rehearsed three years ago.

Miss Anderson will resume the role of the prioress, a woman who tempers authority with humanness and humor. Miss McKenna will return as Sister Joanna of the Cross, the Nun who takes care of the little girl. Casting for the latter role has not been announced.

George Scahefer, who directed the original version, will be the producer-director of the revival. James Costigan's script was adapted from the John Garrett Underhill translation of a play by Gregorio and Maria Martinez-Sierra. The revival will be recorded on video tape next month at NBC's Brooklyn studio.

NBC television has ceased relations with "The Court of Human Relations." The program, produced by A. L. Alexander, was presented for the last time Friday. It had been on the network since June 22. It has been succeeded by reruns of "Blondie."

Sore, Achy Muscles Relieved Better By Synergistic Action

By GILBERT M. CRAMER, Pharmaceutical Chemist Specializing in Pain Relievers

If you are like me, you usually don't get enough exercise. But now and then you overdo it. The unaccustomed exercise leaves your muscles tired, sore, and you ache all over. Probably you have a headache, too, and you're so grouchy that nobody can stand you.

G. M. Cramer

That's when you need Stanback, the modern pain reliever with synergistic action—the medical term for the combined action of Stanback's several pain-relieving ingredients in one easy-to-take dose. This combined synergistic action gives you more complete relief than any single ingredient possibly could, and total pain-relieving effect greater than that of all the separate ingredients if they were not combined.

Test it yourself. See how quickly you forget your aches and pains, your grouchiness vanishes, you feel good again! No wonder Stanback has earned the famous Good Housekeeping Seal.

So remember — for faster, more effective and complete relief, insist on genuine Stanback. Take your choice of powders or tablets, and snap back with Stanback!

Strike Will Pinch State in 2 Weeks

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Look two weeks ahead on your calendar and write D-day beside Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1959—the deadline for breaking the steel deadlock without damage to Georgia's economic outlook.

Evidence that Georgia will not otherwise escape pocketbook injury as a result of the new five-week-old dispute came Monday from the Purchasing Agents Association of Georgia.

Jim Montgomery

The regular monthly report of its business survey committee, compiled by chairman Howard L. Baer from reports of members who handle millions of dollars worth of shopping for many types and sizes of business firms, put it this way:

"The great majority of those reporting feel that business not only is good at the present, but the outlook for the immediate future is good and activity is predicted to increase even further."

"This is tempered only by the possibility of the current steel strike having a serious effect on general conditions, and more than 50 per cent of those reporting mentioned that if the steel strike is not settled during August, (it) may well have a dampening effect on their individual businesses and general conditions as such."

And even if the White House does use its influence to bring about an accord just before Soviet Premier Khrushchev sets foot on American soil, the strike wouldn't necessarily be over before mid-September.

That's two weeks longer than more than half of the Georgia association's members are willing to extend their otherwise rosy forecasts without a bit of hedging.

Meanwhile, the majority of reporting purchasing agents in Georgia indicate a "steadying trend" in general business conditions here, noting that both production and new orders this month are at about the same level they were in July.

"A substantial number" of the buyers, however, reported new orders somewhat better than last month.

The August report of the association said the same steadying influence is indicated by "the vast majority . . . reporting commodity prices and inventories the same as last month."

It added that buying policy is "still on a short-term anticipation, with practically no materials in short supply, and prompt deliveries available on normal (maintenance) supplies—with the possible exception of some steel items."

Foreign Cars Catapult To Record U.S. Sales

DETROIT (AP)—United States auto dealers sold 3,080,881 cars in the first six months of 1959, Automotive News reported Monday.

The six-month figure compares with 2,370,189 in 1958, a poor sales year.

The 1959 first-half total includes a record 289,443 imported cars, up from the previous import record of 159,688 a year ago. June was a record month for imports with 57,211 registrations against 53,963 in May, the previous record.

4 LINES IMPROVE

In total sales, Chevrolet was first with 755,628 registrations, and Ford was second with 733,946. Others in the first 10 in order were Pontiac, Plymouth, Oldsmobile, Rambler, Buick, Mercury, Cadillac and Dodge.

Among the imports Volkswagen led with 54,313 followed by Renault, English Ford, Opel, Simca, Fiat, Hillman, Triumph, Vauxhall and Volvo.

Studebaker-Packard's 1960 Lark began moving along assembly lines Monday, joining Imperial and the small Chevrolet Corvair in new model production.

Only Chevrolet and the Ford divisions continue to build 1959 models. Both are almost ready to shut down. Chevrolet has had its rear-engined Corvair in production for a month but has released no figures on the number of units.

FORD READIES FALCON

Ford closed the 1959 run at Lorain, Ohio., Friday and immediately began making ready for production there of its new small car, the Falcon.

Total domestic car assemblies last week were 73,240, low for the year. In the preceding week 108,239 cars were built while in the same week a year ago the figure was 59,677. So far in the calendar year 4,023,162 cars have been built, some 49 per cent more than during the same period of 1958.

Debits Rise 18 Pct. at State Banks

July debits at reporting banks in Georgia were 18 per cent above the same month a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reported Monday.

The bank analyst releasing the data compared the 18 per cent gain for Georgia with the 16 per cent gain for the entire Sixth District, which also includes Alabama, Florida, the southern halves of Louisiana and Mississippi, and the eastern two-thirds of Tennessee.

Most major trade centers in Georgia showed gains in bank debits this July over July 1958: Atlanta, 19 per cent; Savannah, 17 per cent; Macon, 16 per cent; Columbus, 9 per cent; Augusta, 20 per cent; Albany, 6 per cent; Rome, 23 per cent; Athens, 12 per cent; Marietta, 26 per cent; Valdosta, 58 per cent; Brunswick, 24 per cent; LaGrange, 16 per cent; Griffin, 18 per cent, and Newnan, 6 per cent. Declines were Gainesville, 1 per cent, and Elberton, 6 per cent.

People and Events

The Food Manufacturers Sales Executive Club of Atlanta will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday. The social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Guy Bell has been elevated to president of the club. Other new officers include C. C. Bishop, first vice president, and George Ellis, second vice president.

Harold H. Warden has joined Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Georgia Division as Hercules commercial sales manager. Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Monday. Dealers reported converter inquiry for some of the wider print cloth numbers for spot and nearby delivery. Offerings were scarce.

Slow conditions prevailed in the synthetic goods market. Converters generally were not ready to begin buying 1960 deliveries. The lack of activity for the second half of this year was attributed to the heavy forward buying earlier this year.

IT&T Reports Communication Breakthrough

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A breakthrough in the method of transforming rust-like ferrites into nearly perfect crystals for increased efficiency in microwave communications was announced here Monday by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

"We have been successful for the first time in synthetically producing mono-crystal ferrites," Frank M. Viles, vice president of the ITT components division, reported at a news conference.

"And because of their greater efficiency, we will be able to reduce the physical size of crystals—an extremely important miniaturization factor today as we move farther into the field of space communications," he added.

Stocks Slip Notch As Tape Dawdles

NEW YORK (AP)—Most stocks slipped a notch as the market dawdled through another listless session. Late selling wiped out most gains posted in a drab early advance. A number of issues clung to some of their early gains to temper the size of the slump.

Motors, rubbers, aircrafts, airlines, electronics, metals, chemicals and oils genereally took losses. Some drugs, steels and rails managed to edge higher.

The session was one of the dullest of the year. Volume dwindled to 1,980,000 shares from 1,990,000 on Friday. Both figures were the lowest in 15 months.

VISITS, STRIKE BLAMED

News of July slumps in industrial output and wages and salaries also dampened investor sentiment, they reported.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 40 cents to $230.60, with the industrials down 90 cents, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities down 10 cents. The Dow-Jones industrial index dipped 0.32 to 658.42.

United Fruit, which omitted a dividend, was the most active stock, dropping 2½ to 32 on 32,400 shares. Next came Erie Railroad, up ⅛ at 14⅞ on 30,500 shares.

YOUNGSTOWN SINKS

Youngstown Sheet & Tube sank 1¼ in a mixed steel group. U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin picked up fractions.

Most American Stock Exchange prices also gave ground on volume of 890,000 shares against 1,090,000 Friday. Catalin Molybdenum, Creole Petroleum and International Petroleum all lost around a point. Heli-Coil climbed more than 2 while Associated Oil & Gas and Universal Winding each gained close to a point.

Staple Mart Slow, Mixed

The Department of Agriculture issued an authorization of $4,820,000 to Korea to buy about 40,000 bales of cotton.

Memphis reports to a leading spot firm said there was better demand for spot cotton, with most sales booked for prompt and September-November shipment.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK (AP)—World sugar futures were generally lower and active, with traders less apprehensive over counter-revolutionary activities in Cuba. Official notice that a toal of 571 September delivery notes will be issued on Tuesday against nearby September world futures added to presure on the market.

The domestic raw market was firm. Dealers estimated that cane refiners on the Gulf and in the Northeast bought between 40,000 and 50,000 tons of spot raw sugar late last Friday. The price was 6.40 cens a pound delivered, up 8 points from the last sale and equaled the high for domestic raws this year. A good demand for refined and a tendency to increase stocks on the possibility of a longshoremen's strike at the end of September were reasons for the firmness in the market, dealers said.

Demand for refined was at seasonally high levels.

Beans, Rye Dive Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and rye futures tumbled into fairly good sized losses again on the Board of Trade as selling gathered speed shortly before the closing gong. They finished at or near their lows for the day.

Corn was moderately weak, oats mostly easier and wheat about steady.

Losses running to almost two cents a bushel left the September soybean contract at a new low for the season and some other deliveries within a few cents of their lows.

The additional pressure Monday was ascribed in part to reports of good rainfall over the weekend in major producing areas but dealers have said the long-range outlook for the commodity is not very promising for a sustained rally unless or until there is some crop or commercial development to offset the influence of the government's August estimate of 1959 yield.

Rye losses included some profit taking and stop-loss selling. The downturn appeared to be partly in sympathy with weakness at Winnipeg.
